50 Fighting Ships To Be Inactivated

Cutback Planned As Economy Move

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Navy, fitting its fleet to the military new look and to economy, said today it will pull 50 fighting ships out of service in the next 18 months.

The announcement, even before the scheduled submission of the new defense budget to Congress Jan. 21, caught many Congress members by surprise, but two top members of the House Armed Services Committee said the plan would not impair national security.

Chairman Short (R-Mo) said "it won't take away any of our major striking power," and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), ranking Democratic member, agreed.

Cruisers To Be "Mothballed"

There has been no hint of the size of the Navy's proposed new budget, but it is known that the Navy has been called on to take a sizeable part of proposed reductions in military spending.

First to go into mothballs will be the heavy cruiser Quincy, "the least modern of the Navy's active cruisers," the Navy said. That 13,600-ton ship, built in 1943 and now at the Long Beach, Calif., navy yard, "will be inactivated at an early date."

The Navy did not say what other ships would be laid up. There has been speculation they would include most or all of the four huge 45,000-ton battleships, the Missouri, Iowa, New Jersey and Wisconsin.

409 Ships In Active Fleet

These battlewagons took their turns during the Korean War, using their big 16-inch guns to bombard enemy strongpoints along the coast and inland to a distance of almost 20 miles. But except for bombardment, battleships no longer play a prominent role in modern naval warfare with its emphasis on carrier airpower.

The active fleet currently averages about 409 combat ships, including the four battleships, 14 attack-type carriers including three of the 45,000-ton Midway class, eight light carriers, 19 heavy and light cruisers, 11 carrier escorts, 248 destroyers and destroyer escorts, and 105 submarines.

Avalanche Toll Rises As Rescue Work Continues

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 13 (AP)—Twenty-seven Alpine villagers were found crushed or smothered to death today under avalanche masses in the hamlet of Blons and hope was all but abandoned for 35 others missing in the snowy depths there.

Forty four were found injured in Blons and most were brought out to safety during the day.

Rescue workers at Blons came upon the greatest single concentration of tragedy in the spate of windblown avalanches that spread death and destruction in three neighbor nations since Sunday.

The 44 injured and the 62 dead or missing represent more than a fourth of Blons' 385 population.

Danger Lessens

Although the danger of avalanches generally slowed down during the day with the coming of colder temperatures, a report from Mellau near Bergenz today said five persons were killed and six injured in an apparently new snowslide there.

All through the day U.S. and Swiss Air Forces sent doctors, medical supplies and food to Austria's "Valley of Death," in the Walser region near the Swiss frontier.

Aground, more than 1,000 rescuers began removing the injured from the ruins of seven villages in the valley, the area hardest hit by Alpine snow slides that have killed 117 persons and left 57 missing in Austria, West Germany and Switzerland.

Hundreds Homeless

Half the valley homes were smashed to matchwood. A late count showed 43 dead there, 42 missing and 51 injured.

That catastrophe, however, was only a part of the dreaded "white death" that left hundreds homeless, communications paralyzed, villages isolated and industry at a standstill in parts of the three nations.

Unofficial compilations showed 92 persons have been killed and 53 are missing in Austria. Avalances buried 207 others, but they were rescued alive. Scores of these are in hospitals, critically injured.

McCarthy Hints Alaskan Graft

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and his Senate Investigations subcommittee today dug into documents which, McCarthy said, tell a story of "claimed graft and corruption" in government spending in Alaska.

A Democratic senator meanwhile raised the question whether the probe is aimed at keeping Alaska, which usually votes Democratic, from becoming a state.

McCarthy did not go into specific details on what the documents contain. He and Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) were the only subcommittee members present as the inquiry started behind closed doors. Democratic members quit the subcommittee in a dispute with McCarthy last year.

McCarthy said he and Dirksen had received an extensive briefing from two staff investigators, Carmine S. Bellino and Herbert S. Hawkins, who spent a month and a half in Alaska late last year.

Public hearings may begin in about a month, McCarthy said.

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla) made public a letter questioning whether the Alaskan inquiry might be "political" in nature, and urging an investigation of alleged Communist activity in Hawaii.

5-Cent Hike Refused By Switchmen's Union

CHICAGO Jan. 13 (AP)—The Switchmen's Union of North America said today it had rejected a five cents an hour wage increase offered by the nation's railroads.

The union is demanding a boost of 40 cents an hour in current negotiations with the carriers.

W. A. Fleet, Switchmen's president, in a statement said "the wage position of the switchmen has deteriorated" during the last 15 years, and that "lower paid semi-skilled workers in the railroads and other industries have caught up with the switchmen, who are highly skilled and who are subject to the greater hazards of railroading."

"Space Helmet" Takes Anesthesia Fear From Kids

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Navy doctors have perfected a "space helmet" for children to wear on flights into anesthesia.

The helmet has been developed at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Medical Center to take the fear out of being put to sleep on an operating table. It was named after its popular counterpart in comic strips and television programs.

The helmet, which has a built in tube for administering anesthetics, was first tested on 4-year-old Jimmy Bowden, son of a chief hospitalman at the Bethesda Medical School.

Young Jimmy had steadfastly refused to submit to an operation on his tonsils until told that he was going to make a space trip and that the helmet would prepare him for a "blast-off" from earth.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 13 (AP)—William Carson tossed a wrench through a show window to get a place to spend the winter. Municipal Court Judge Patrick Barton gave him 60 days on the state farm.

U.S., Red Aides Discuss Korea Parley Revival

Question Is Whether U. N. Will Back Down On Apology Demand

PANMUNJOM, Thurs., Jan. 14 (AP) — Red correspondents said the Communists today proposed renewal Saturday of planning talks for a Korean peace conference.

The U. S. spokesman replied that the record of the previous talks should be corrected before any consideration be given to setting a date for the preliminary discussions, the Red newsmen said.

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Jan. 14 (AP)—U.S. and Communist aides meet today to discuss the stalled preliminary Korean peace talks but the Reds have not retracted the hot charges that broke up negotiations.

The State Department in Washington said it had sent new instructions but declined to say whether they insisted on a retraction of Red China's charge of "perfidy" against the United States. There was no immediate comment on this development here.

The big question was whether the United Nations Command would back down. When U.S. Envoy Arthur Dean broke off the talks Dec. 12 he said he would not return until the Reds took back the charge.

The Communists showed no sign of retreating. They refused to discuss "conditions" at today's meeting for resuming the talks. They agreed to talk only about a date.

As the diplomatic secretaries gathered, the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission went into session to debate an Indian plan which may call for releasing 22,500 unrepatriated prisoners even before the Jan. 23 deadline.

The Communists, who want the prisoners held until the peace conference settles their fate, were expected to be voted down by India, Sweden and Switzerland.

Indian sources in New Delhi said the prisoners would be turned back to the commands which captured them at least three days before midnight Jan. 22. This will fit into U.N. Command plans for releasing the 22,000 Chinese and North Koreans in the anti-Red compounds.

Senate Launches Seaway Debate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Senate debate got under way slowly today on legislation to authorize the United States to join with Canada in constructing the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway.

After hearing a two-hour speech by Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) in support of the long proposed international project, the Senate temporarily sidetracked the debate to discuss other business.

It later heard the beginning of an opposition speech by Sen. Beall (R-Md), which will be continued tomorrow.

Wiley, frequently interrupted by Sens. Butler (R-Md) and Long (D-La), both opponents of the proposal, contended that failure to approve the bill now would impel an impatient Canada to build the 27-foot Great Lakes-to-the-Atlantic waterway by itself.

Butler, during one of his frequent interruptions, said that only two per cent of U. S. shipping would be able to use the waterway.

"You're so wrong," snapped Wiley. "The truth is that 75 per cent of the American merchant marine could use the passage."

Probers Wonder If Ritchie Holds Key To Reuther Case

DETROIT, Jan. 13 (AP)—Authorities moved tonight to find whether Donald Ritchie has the key to a solution of the Walter Reuther shooting or is the perpetrator of a spectacular hoax.

A question remained, however, whether the questioning will be done in Detroit or across the international boundary in Windsor, Ont. Ritchie balked at crossing into the United States and wanted to see a lawyer.

Earlier, however, he had waived extradition at Preston, Ont., where he surrendered early today after a five-day flight from protective police custody. Ontario authorities at the border said the Preston magistrate didn't have power to accept the waiver. Then Ritchie asked for a lawyer.

Judge Albert J. Gordon granted the remand until Jan. 21.

Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien, in Detroit, said he has not made up his mind on seeking a continuance of an examination, scheduled Thursday, for one of the four men named by Ritchie as participants in the Reuther assassination attempt.

Ritchie is now a defendant to an assault to kill warrant in the April 20, 1948, attempted assassination of the CIO president, then newly elected chief of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

Ritchie volunteered information that led a week ago to a warrant charging four men with conspiracy and assault with intent to murder.

Ike Declares He Will Fight For Program

Godfrey Explains

Arthur Godfrey explains, with gestures, to newsmen atop his Miami Beach, Fla., hotel about the incident at Teterboro airport. He said he was caught in a cross wind and had to turn close to the control tower, it was unintentional, and if he scared anybody he was sorry. (Story at bottom of page)

Judge Shot To Death On Courtroom Bench

Slayer Turns Gun On Self Following Chase

WARREN, Pa., Jan. 13 (AP)—A 26-year-old construction worker cited for non-support payments to his wife shot to death the president judge of Warren County today before the horrified eyes of six courtroom witnesses.

State police chased Norman Moon of Connellsville, Pa., for six miles before a hail of bullets brought Moon's car to a halt west of Warren.

Two Bullets Strike Judge

Killed was 51-year-old Judge Allison D. Wade. Two of the five bullets Moon fired struck Judge Wade in the chest. He staggered from the bench towards his chambers, holding his chest and moaning: "He shot me, he shot me."

Moon had been hailed into court for failing to pay $30 a week support to his wife as ordered by Judge Wade. The shooting occurred just as Judge Wade called Moon to the bench to explain why he wasn't making payments.

Dist. Atty. Myer Kornreich, one of the six witnesses, said he saw Moon open his coat and whip out a .45 caliber revolver.

Court Reporter Faints

"I started to run out of the courtroom to call the police and Moon fired at me. I kept going. As I was going down the steps to the first floor, I heard four or five more shots."

One of the bullets fired by Moon narrowly missed Mrs. Bernice Seavy, a court reporter. She fainted and had to be treated for shock.

Dist. Atty. Kornreich said Moon fled the courtroom, leaped in his car and drove away. State police immediately picked up his trail after getting the call from the district attorney.

Hospital Visiting Problem Solved By Walkie-Talkie

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 13 (AP)—Because a hospital regulation banned them from visiting their mother and brand new baby sister last night, Darvin 7, and Sceone Kapitz, 5, were upset for awhile.

But daddy fixed it.

George Kapitz, of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, equipped Mrs. Kapitz and the children with walkie-talkie radios. Standing in a first floor corridor, Darvin and Sceone chatted with their mother who was in her room on the fifth floor, and got up to date on things.

Tax-Cut Plan Will Benefit 700,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today approved a 50-million dollar cut in income taxes for about 700,000 single heads of families as the first major step in a vast tax revision project.

The committee is undertaking to rewrite almost all tax laws—hundreds of closely-printed pages — to simplify and clarify the tax structure and remove alleged inequities. Its decisions, of course, are subject to approval of Congress and the President.

Congressional staff experts estimated about 700,000 widowed, divorced, separated or single persons with dependents, would be affected.

The new section would give these persons the full benefits now extended to married couples who split their incomes for tax purposes. By splitting their income, a married couple often can remain in lower tax brackets. The present law gives single heads of families only half the benefits of income-splitting.

Four Children Die When Home Burns

GAMBRILLS, Md., Jan. 13 (AP)—Four young children burned to death today when their babysitter, a 14-year-old sister of three of the victims, stepped out to the corner store.

State Police Cpl. W. R. Caldwell identified the victims as Norma Dorsey, 4-year-old daughter of James and Dorothy Dorsey who owned the 5-room frame house, and three cousins of the Dorsey girl, William Thomas Sellman, 8 months; Wilhelmina Sellman, 4, and Mildred Regina Sellman, 2, all Negroes.

Caldwell said the Dorseys had gone to Annapolis to see his father who was critically ill in Anne Arundel General Hospital.

Chief Executive Says Proposals For Good Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he is going to fight for legislation that is important for the American people.

The President told a news conference he isn't making recommendations to Congress just to pass the time away or to look good. He said he believes all of them are for the good of the country and that he is going to work for their enactment.

But he wouldn't say what measures he considers most important or what percentage he expects Congress to push through at its present session.

Politically Feasible?

Asked to comment on some Republican contentions that the program isn't feasible in this election year," the President paused, pondered, and finally said he doesn't think he is too smart politically.

If the program isn't politically feasible, he said, we'll find out. But he said, too, that he didn't think anyone who had studied the farm problem as long as his administration has could believe the existing program is workable or helpful to farmers.

As for changes in the Taft-Hartley law, the President asserted he is leaving it to Congress to determine whether government-supervised polls of workers should take place before or after a strike begins. All he was doing on the election proposal, he said, was to set forth a principle.

Conclusion Not Justified

While Eisenhower was willing to say it is encouraging that Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin has begun preliminary talks with Secretary of State Dulles on the President's pool-the-atom-for-peace plan he said he didn't think a conclusion is justified yet that Russia is acting in good faith.

In North Korea, Eisenhower said he has no information of a Communist military buildup in violation of armistice terms.

In general, he said, there is evidence the Reds are reducing ground forces, doing a lot of digging in for defense, and engaging in a surprising amount of economic rebuilding almost as if North Korea were an adjunct of the land across the Yalu River.

Synthetic Liquid Fuel Program Is Curtailed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior McKay today announced a further curtailment of the government's synthetic liquid fuels program. He also said he would not seek extension of the special synthetic liquid fuels act which expires in April, 1955.

McKay said that in the future the Bureau of Mines program "will emphasize fundamental laboratory and pilot-plant research on producting liquid fuels from coal and oil shale."

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13 (AP)—Actress Suzan Ball, whose right leg was amputated yesterday because of cancer, was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Celestial Flash Just Meteorite, Astronomers Say

[By The Associated Press]

That ball of fire in the sky that alarmed hundreds of people in upstate New York, Northern Pennsylvania, Ohio and Canada today apparently was just a little bit of heaven, or maybe two bits.

Astronomers said the celestial flash at dawn probably was a meteorite—or two meteorites.

Many persons thought it was an exploding plane. Calls deluged newspaper offices, police stations and airports.

Reports came from Marietta, Ohio, Sudbury and Ottawa, Ont., Albany, N. Y. and more than a dozen cities and towns in between.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Congress must decide whether the government-conducted strike votes he has proposed should be conducted before or after strikes begin.

Eisenhower told his news conference he recommended the idea as a principle and, as was the case with nearly all his other proposals for changing the Taft-Hartley law, left it to Congress to work out details.

The President proposed Monday that workers be given a chance in secret, government-held elections to say whether they favor a strike.

Labor Denounces Plan

Eisenhower declined to state whether he intended the polling to be held before or after a walkout starts. Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) has introduced legislation, understood to have been prepared at the White House, providing for such elections after strikes begin.

Union leaders and some members of Congress have sharply criticized any such polls, before or after a strike. But they aimed particular fire at elections after strikes are in effect, saying they would serve as "strike-breaking devices."

Republicans Praise Program

On the other hand many members of Congress, especially Republicans, have generally praised Eisenhower's labor proposals as sound and constructive.

The President declined today to say whether he regarded the strike poll idea as "must" legislation. But he said he was not making recommendations to Congress idly, and intended to fight for his legislative program.

He had carefully avoided spelling out the details of the strike poll proposal, Eisenhower explained, because that is up to Congress.

German And Wife Convicted Of Spying

BONN, Germany, Jan. 13 (AP)—An official of the Bonn Parliament and his pretty wife were sentenced to prison today, convicted of spying for the Russians.

Willi Kutscher, 33, former press officer of the Bundestag (lower house), was sentenced to 17 months and his 32-year-old wife Charlotte to six months. She was placed on probation for three years. Kutscher was prohibted from holding any public office for five years.

Commandants Toss Problem To Higher-Ups

Russian Delegation Blamed For Failure To Reach Agreement

BERLIN, Thursday, Jan. 14 (AP)—Four-power talks on the selection of a site for the foreign ministers' conference scheduled for Jan. 25 broke down in complete disagreement early today.

The issue was referred back to the governments in Washington, London, Paris, and Moscow.

An American spokesman disclosed the three Western powers broke off the talks early this morning after more than 12 hours of fruitless discussion. He said the Russian delegation made it impossible to reach an accord.

The fourth meeting of the Berlin commandants assigned the task of determining a site for the foreign ministers' parley was held in the French headquarters and began early yesterday.

U. S. Proposes Breakoff

The decision to break off further discussions was reached after midnight by Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, American commandant. He made the proposal that the meeting adjourn and the problem be shifted to governmental level.

The British and French concurred immediately and there was no objection from the Russians.

The Russians were reported insisting on holding at least half of the foreign ministers talks in East Berlin, while the Western Powers are demanding three-fourths of the sessions be held in the former Allied Control Authority Building in the American sector of West Berlin.

Other items being discussed include the setting up of a secretariat and arranging security measures.

Red Radio Blasts West

Today's meeting, the fourth, was held in French headquarters in West Berlin. The four commandants have spent a total of 24 hours together in the last week trying to find a formula to end the deadlock.

Moscow radio today accused the American and West German press of trying to undermine the Big Four conference.

A broadcast heard in London said: "American political commentators are particularly stubborn in stressing that there can be no question of abandoning the European Defense Community and the revival of a German aggressive army."

Egypt Outlaws Moslem Group

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 13 (AP)—The nationalistic Moslem Brotherhood—which once boasted two million Islamic followers—was outlawed as subversive today and 60 of its leaders were jailed. The government-ordered shutdown, second in the brotherhood's stormy, 27-year career, sparked angry demonstrations in Cairo.

President Mohamed Naguib's regime staged the crackdown after a clash at Cairo University yesterday between brotherhood members and supporters of the government-backed Liberation Rally. Four students were reported wounded and a jeep burned in the flurry.

Officials made clear, however, that they had long been planning to clip the wings of the once-powerful Moslem outfit, which advocates applying Islamic religious precepts in the governments of Arab nations.

Police roped off the brotherhood's Cairo headquarters while raiding parties made a house-to-house roundup of leaders, including Hassan El Hodeiby, "supreme guide" of the brotherhood and storm center of dissension recently within the organization.

N. Y. Port Authority Accuses Godfrey Of Reckless Flying

Godfrey Apologizes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 13 (AP) — Arthur Godfrey apologized today for scaring Teterboro (N.J.) Airport employes when his plane whizzed dangerously close to the control tower last Thursday — and he repeated that a strong crosswind was responsible.

"A 40-mile cross-wind caught me," the radio and television star said at a press conference. "It was unintentional, and if I scared the boys in the tower I am sorry. I thought everybody knew what had happened at the time, and I told the tower on radio that I hadn't tried to do anything unusual."

Godfrey received his callers from the press in the penthouse atop the Kenilworth Hotel, where he stays while in Miami Beach.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Port of New York Authority tonight accused Arthur Godfrey of careless and reckless flying in a Jan. 7 takeoff from Teterboro, N.J., airport.

The Authority rejected the television entertainer's statement that a strong crosswind caused his plane to veer dangerously close to the Teterboro control tower.

Instead, Godfrey was accused of endangering life and property by disregarding Teterboro's take-off regulations.

The Port Authority asked the Civil Aeronautics Administration to make a thorough investigation and, if facts warrant, to discipline Godfrey "to demonstrate vigorously and unmistakeably that reckless flying will not be tolerated in this area."

Maximum disciplinary action would be to revoke Godfrey's pilot license.

As the diplomatic secretaries gathered, the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission went into session to debate an Indian plan which may call for releasing 22,500 unrepatriated prisoners even before the Jan. 23 deadline.

The Communists, who want the prisoners held until the peace conference settles their fate, were expected to be voted down by India, Sweden and Switzerland.

Indian sources in New Delhi said the prisoners would be turned back to the commands which captured them at least three days before midnight Jan. 22. This will fit into U.N. Command plans for releasing the 22,000 Chinese and North Koreans in the anti-Red compounds.

Senate Launches Seaway Debate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Senate debate got under way slowly today on legislation to authorize the United States to join with Canada in constructing the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway.

After hearing a two-hour speech by Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) in support of the long proposed international project, the Senate temporarily sidetracked the debate to discuss other business.

It later heard the beginning of an opposition speech by Sen. Beall (R-Md), which will be continued tomorrow.

Wiley, frequently interrupted by Sens. Butler (R-Md) and Long (D-La), both opponents of the proposal, contended that failure to approve the bill now would impel an impatient Canada to build the 27-foot Great Lakes-to-the-Atlantic waterway by itself.

Butler, during one of his frequent interruptions, said that only two per cent of U. S. shipping would be able to use the waterway.

"You're so wrong," snapped Wiley. "The truth is that 75 per cent of the American merchant marine could use the passage."

Probers Wonder If Ritchie Holds Key To Reuther Case

DETROIT, Jan. 13 (AP)—Authorities moved tonight to find whether Donald Ritchie has the key to a solution of the Walter Reuther shooting or is the perpetrator of a spectacular hoax.

A question remained, however, whether the questioning will be done in Detroit or across the international boundary in Windsor, Ont. Ritchie balked at crossing into the United States and wanted to see a lawyer.

Earlier, however, he had waived extradition at Preston, Ont., where he surrendered early today after a five-day flight from protective police custody. Ontario authorities at the border said the Preston magistrate didn't have power to accept the waiver. Then Ritchie asked for a lawyer.

Judge Albert J. Gordon granted the remand until Jan. 21.

Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien, in Detroit, said he has not made up his mind on seeking a continuance of an examination, scheduled Thursday, for one of the four men named by Ritchie as participants in the Reuther assassination attempt.

Ritchie is now a defendant to an assault to kill warrant in the April 20, 1948, attempted assassination of the CIO president, then newly elected chief of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

Ritchie volunteered information that led a week ago to a warrant charging four men with conspiracy and assault with intent to murder.

Ike Declares He Will Fight For Program

Godfrey Explains

Arthur Godfrey explains, with gestures, to newsmen atop his Miami Beach, Fla., hotel about the incident at Teterboro airport. He said he was caught in a cross wind and had to turn close to the control tower, it was unintentional, and if he scared anybody he was sorry. (Story at bottom of page)

Judge Shot To Death On Courtroom Bench

Slayer Turns Gun On Self Following Chase

WARREN, Pa., Jan. 13 (AP)—A 26-year-old construction worker cited for non-support payments to his wife shot to death the president judge of Warren County today before the horrified eyes of six courtroom witnesses.

State police chased Norman Moon of Connellsville, Pa., for six miles before a hail of bullets brought Moon's car to a halt west of Warren.

Two Bullets Strike Judge

Killed was 51-year-old Judge Allison D. Wade. Two of the five bullets Moon fired struck Judge Wade in the chest. He staggered from the bench towards his chambers, holding his chest and moaning: "He shot me, he shot me."

Moon had been hailed into court for failing to pay $30 a week support to his wife as ordered by Judge Wade. The shooting occurred just as Judge Wade called Moon to the bench to explain why he wasn't making payments.

Dist. Atty. Myer Kornreich, one of the six witnesses, said he saw Moon open his coat and whip out a .45 caliber revolver.

Court Reporter Faints

"I started to run out of the courtroom to call the police and Moon fired at me. I kept going. As I was going down the steps to the first floor, I heard four or five more shots."

One of the bullets fired by Moon narrowly missed Mrs. Bernice Seavy, a court reporter. She fainted and had to be treated for shock.

Dist. Atty. Kornreich said Moon fled the courtroom, leaped in his car and drove away. State police immediately picked up his trail after getting the call from the district attorney.

Four Children Die When Home Burns

GAMBRILLS, Md., Jan. 13 (AP)—Four young children burned to death today when their babysitter, a 14-year-old sister of three of the victims, stepped out to the corner store.

State Police Cpl. W. R. Caldwell identified the victims as Norma Dorsey, 4-year-old daughter of James and Dorothy Dorsey who owned the 5-room frame house, and three cousins of the Dorsey girl, William Thomas Sellman, 8 months; Wilhelmina Sellman, 4, and Mildred Regina Sellman, 2, all Negroes.

Caldwell said the Dorseys had gone to Annapolis to see his father who was critically ill in Anne Arundel General Hospital.

Army Asks 18,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Army issued another of its curtailed draft calls today, asking selective service to provide 18,000 men in March.

Hospital Visiting Problem Solved By Walkie-Talkie

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 13 (AP)—Because a hospital regulation banned them from visiting their mother and brand new baby sister last night, Darvin 7, and Sceone Kapitz, 5, were upset for awhile.

But daddy fixed it.

George Kapitz, of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, equipped Mrs. Kapitz and the children with walkie-talkie radios. Standing in a first floor corridor, Darvin and Sceone chatted with their mother who was in her room on the fifth floor, and got up to date on things.

Tax-Cut Plan Will Benefit 700,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today approved a 50-million dollar cut in income taxes for about 700,000 single heads of families as the first major step in a vast tax revision project.

The committee is undertaking to rewrite almost all tax laws—hundreds of closely-printed pages — to simplify and clarify the tax structure and remove alleged inequities. Its decisions, of course, are subject to approval of Congress and the President.

Congressional staff experts estimated about 700,000 widowed, divorced, separated or single persons with dependents, would be affected.

The new section would give these persons the full benefits now extended to married couples who split their incomes for tax purposes. By splitting their income, a married couple often can remain in lower tax brackets. The present law gives single heads of families only half the benefits of income-splitting.

Chief Executive Says Proposals For Good Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he is going to fight for legislation that is important for the American people.

The President told a news conference he isn't making recommendations to Congress just to pass the time away or to look good. He said he believes all of them are for the good of the country and that he is going to work for their enactment.

But he wouldn't say what measures he considers most important or what percentage he expects Congress to push through at its present session.

Politically Feasible?

Asked to comment on some Republican contentions that the program isn't feasible in this election year," the President paused, pondered, and finally said he doesn't think he is too smart politically.

If the program isn't politically feasible, he said, we'll find out. But he said, too, that he didn't think anyone who had studied the farm problem as long as his administration has could believe the existing program is workable or helpful to farmers.

As for changes in the Taft-Hartley law, the President asserted he is leaving it to Congress to determine whether government-supervised polls of workers should take place before or after a strike begins. All he was doing on the election proposal, he said, was to set forth a principle.

Conclusion Not Justified

While Eisenhower was willing to say it is encouraging that Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin has begun preliminary talks with Secretary of State Dulles on the President's pool-the-atom-for-peace plan he said he didn't think a conclusion is justified yet that Russia is acting in good faith.

In North Korea, Eisenhower said he has no information of a Communist military buildup in violation of armistice terms.

In general, he said, there is evidence the Reds are reducing ground forces, doing a lot of digging in for defense, and engaging in a surprising amount of economic rebuilding almost as if North Korea were an adjunct of the land across the Yalu River.

Synthetic Liquid Fuel Program Is Curtailed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior McKay today announced a further curtailment of the government's synthetic liquid fuels program. He also said he would not seek extension of the special synthetic liquid fuels act which expires in April, 1955.

McKay said that in the future the Bureau of Mines program "will emphasize fundamental laboratory and pilot-plant research on producting liquid fuels from coal and oil shale."

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13 (AP)—Actress Suzan Ball, whose right leg was amputated yesterday because of cancer, was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Celestial Flash Just Meteorite, Astronomers Say

[By The Associated Press]

That ball of fire in the sky that alarmed hundreds of people in upstate New York, Northern Pennsylvania, Ohio and Canada today apparently was just a little bit of heaven, or maybe two bits.

Astronomers said the celestial flash at dawn probably was a meteorite—or two meteorites.

Many persons thought it was an exploding plane. Calls deluged newspaper offices, police stations and airports.

Reports came from Marietta, Ohio, Sudbury and Ottawa, Ont., Albany, N. Y. and more than a dozen cities and towns in between.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Congress must decide whether the government-conducted strike votes he has proposed should be conducted before or after strikes begin.

Eisenhower told his news conference he recommended the idea as a principle and, as was the case with nearly all his other proposals for changing the Taft-Hartley law, left it to Congress to work out details.

Labor Denounces Plan

Eisenhower declined to state whether he intended the polling to be held before or after a walkout starts. Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) has introduced legislation, understood to have been prepared at the White House, providing for such elections after strikes begin.

Union leaders and some members of Congress have sharply criticized any such polls, before or after a strike. But they aimed particular fire at elections after strikes are in effect, saying they would serve as "strike-breaking devices."

Republicans Praise Program

On the other hand many members of Congress, especially Republicans, have generally praised Eisenhower's labor proposals as sound and constructive.

The President declined today to say whether he regarded the strike poll idea as "must" legislation. But he said he was not making recommendations to Congress idly, and intended to fight for his legislative program.

He had carefully avoided spelling out the details of the strike poll proposal. Eisenhower explained, because that is up to Congress.

German And Wife Convicted Of Spying

BONN, Germany, Jan. 13 (AP)—An official of the Bonn Parliament and his pretty wife were sentenced to prison today, convicted of spying for the Russians.

Willi Kutscher, 33, former press officer of the Bundestag (lower house), was sentenced to 17 months and his 32-year-old wife Charlotte to six months. She was placed on probation for three years. Kutscher was prohibted from holding any public office for five years.

N. Y. Port Authority Accuses Godfrey Of Reckless Flying

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Port of New York Authority tonight accused Arthur Godfrey of careless and reckless flying in a Jan. 7 takeoff from Teterboro, N.J., airport.

The Authority rejected the television entertainer's statement that a strong crosswind caused his plane to veer dangerously close to the Teterboro control tower.

Instead, Godfrey was accused of endangering life and property by disregarding Teterboro's take-off regulations.

The Port Authority asked the Civil Aeronautics Administration to make a thorough investigation and, if facts warrant, to discipline Godfrey "to demonstrate vigorously and unmistakeably that reckless flying will not be tolerated in this area."

Godfrey Apologizes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 13 (AP) — Arthur Godfrey apologized today for scaring Teterboro (N.J.) Airport employes when his plane whizzed dangerously close to the control tower last Thursday — and he repeated that a strong crosswind was responsible.

"A 40-mile cross-wind caught me," the radio and television star said at a press conference. "It was unintentional, and if I scared the boys in the tower I am sorry. I thought everybody knew what had happened at the time, and I told the tower on radio that I hadn't tried to do anything unusual."

Godfrey received his callers from the press in the penthouse atop the Kenilworth Hotel, where he stays while in Miami Beach.

Commandants Toss Problem To Higher-Ups

Russian Delegation Blamed For Failure To Reach Agreement

BERLIN, Thursday, Jan. 14 (AP)—Four-power talks on the selection of a site for the foreign ministers' conference scheduled for Jan. 25 broke down in complete disagreement early today.

The issue was referred back to the governments in Washington, London, Paris, and Moscow.

An American spokesman disclosed the three Western powers broke off the talks early this morning after more than 12 hours of fruitless discussion. He said the Russian delegation made it impossible to reach an accord.

The fourth meeting of the Berlin commandants assigned the task of determining a site for the foreign ministers' parley was held in the French headquarters and began early yesterday.

U. S. Proposes Breakoff

The decision to break off further discussions was reached after midnight by Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, American commandant. He made the proposal that the meeting adjourn and the problem be shifted to governmental level.

The British and French concurred immediately and there was no objection from the Russians.

The Russians were reported insisting on holding at least half of the foreign ministers talks in East Berlin, while the Western Powers are demanding three-fourths of the sessions be held in the former Allied Control Authority Building in the American sector of West Berlin.

Other items being discussed include the setting up of a secretariat and arranging security measures.

Red Radio Blasts West

Today's meeting, the fourth, was held in French headquarters in West Berlin. The four commandants have spent a total of 24 hours together in the last week trying to find a formula to end the deadlock.

Moscow radio today accused the American and West German press of trying to undermine the Big Four conference.

A broadcast heard in London said: "American political commentators are particularly stubborn in stressing that there can be no question of abandoning the European Defense Community and the revival of a German aggressive army."

Egypt Outlaws Moslem Group

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 13 (AP)—The nationalistic Moslem Brotherhood—which once boasted two million Islamic followers—was outlawed as subversive today and 60 of its leaders were jailed. The government-ordered shutdown, second in the brotherhood's stormy, 27-year career, sparked angry demonstrations in Cairo.

President Mohamed Naguib's regime staged the crackdown after a clash at Cairo University yesterday between brotherhood members and supporters of the government-backed Liberation Rally. Four students were reported wounded and a jeep burned in the flurry.

Officials made clear, however, that they had long been planning to clip the wings of the once-powerful Moslem outfit, which advocates applying Islamic religious precepts in the governments of Arab nations.

Police roped off the brotherhood's Cairo headquarters while raiding parties made a house-to-house roundup of leaders, including Hassan El Hodeiby, "supreme guide" of the brotherhood and storm center of dissension recently within the organization.

U. S. Apparently Makes Cautious Offer To Do Business With Reds

Export Proposal Boosted By Weeks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks, in what looked like a cautious offer to do business with Russia and her European satellites, said today "it has been and still is" U. S. policy to approve non-strategic exports to Red Europe.

Weeks' policy statement came in the midst of a hubbub over a Minnesota soybean oil producer's proposal to the Commerce Department that it license the export, from government-owned surplus stocks, of 3,000 tons of cottonseed oil and butter for the benefit of Russia.

Weeks' statement, part of his quarterly report on export controls, might give a boost to the export proposal made by Dwayne Andreas, an official of the Honeymead Co., Mankato, Minn.

Officials of the Commerce Department's export control division have Andreas' application before them. The division has responsibility for keeping strategic goods out of Red hands.

Cottonseed oil and butter are not on the list of strategic exports banned for the European Soviet bloc, but there have been no exports of these commodities since controls went into effect in 1950, the Commerce Department said.

Although some of the government's stock of surplus butter has been sold to relief agencies for use abroad, none has gone to foreign countries through commercial channels because the price has been higher than the world price.

Weeks said in his report that "to a considerable degree" the small amount of trade with Soviet Russia has been due to "a lack of interest on the part of the Soviet bloc in obtaining non-strategic and consumer-type goods" rather than to U. S. restrictions.

It was this statement in the report which appeared to be an invitation to Red nations in Europe to buy American goods that are not on the restricted list. It was notable, in connection with Russia's recently announced intention of providing her people with more consumer goods, that Weeks specifically mentioned "consumer-type goods" as being available.

Weeks emphasized that trade with Red China and North Korea is totally banned.

"Dress Suit" Is Advocated As Top Fashion For Easter

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Designer Maurice Rentner advocates the "dress suit" as the top women's fashion for this year's Easter Parade.

The "dress suit" is his term for softly feminine suits. Many have low, open draped necklines, others feature his "turban drape," swathing the fitted midriff. All are dressy enough for cocktail wear and each is trimmed with a rosebud, sometimes worn front and center on a cummerbund, sometimes at the neckline, sometimes at the back.

One notable suit in the group is of lightweight beige wool with crushed cummerbund midriff and pastel silk shirred lining in the sleeves, to add to the delicate feminine look.

His "turban drape" appears on both suits and dresses. One example is a two-piece cocktail dress of black shantung with a huge sash of white shantung draped about the hips.

On some dresses he likes necklines cut high in front, low in back. A sprightly "white-collar-girl" dinner dress in black silk has bare shoulders and a starched white little-boy collar acting as a halter. A black rose serves as a necktie.

Ben Reig likes short jackets reaching barely to the waist, and straight, tight skirts slightly shorter than those of last season. Some of the jackets are fitted, bellhop fashion, while others flare out like lampshades.

Black and white prints are outstanding in his suit collection, and stark white is featured for cocktail and evening dresses. The silhouette is straight and slim for daytime, bouffant for after five.

The high-waisted empire silhouette is the big thing in Jo Copeland's spring offerings. Suits have high-riding skirts reaching to just below the bust. Dresses are moulded, high-waisted, figure-revealing.

Bra Of Night Club Performer Leads To Man's Undoing

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP) — A night club performer's bra led to the undoing of a Delaware man today and stripped him of his freedom.

Police said they saw 27-year-old Linwood Vible standing on a street corner early this morning with a bra dangling from his pocket.

They took him to the police station and unburdened him of the bra, a pair of long black stockings, two garters, two rhinestone bracelets and $50 in nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars.

Vible explained he had gone to the Gayety Nite Club and the place closed up while he was in the restroom. He said he picked up the articles of apparel and the change from the cash register before leaving the place.

He pleaded guilty to larceny and was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Plans To Set Grammer Hanging Date Delayed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP)—Judge Herman M. Moser today ordered postponement of plans to set the execution date for George Edward Grammer, New York office manager convicted of the bludgeon murder of his wife.

The move was taken in view of plans of Grammer's attorney, Joseph Sherbow, to ask the Supreme Court to review the case. Sherbow lost an earlier effort for a new trial before the Maryland Court of Appeals.

An application for a Supreme Court review would have caused cancellation of any execution date which might have been set. Judge Moser had planned to fix the time for hanging tomorrow.

China Gobbling Up North Korea, Dulles Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that Communist China is gobbling up North Korea, "virtually incorporating" it as a Chinese province.

This will make it enormously difficult to reunite Korea peacefully, Dulles said. But he expressed confidence that unification would be achieved eventually, just as he said he believes Germany will be whole again someday.

The secretary appeared before the committee to ask for Senate ratification of a mutual security pact with South Korea. He declared the treaty would discourage Red aggression and help guard peace in the Pacific.

There were indications that ratification would be approved by the committee in short order, particularly since Dulles said it would be "entirely appropriate" for the Senate to emphasize in a statement or interpretive clause that the United States is not bound to back any aggressive moves made by South Korea. Several senators want this made crystal clear.

Czech Refugees To Get U. S. Washing Machines

MUNICH, Germany, Jan. 13 (AP)—Radio Free Europe said today 40 American washing machines and 40 cases of soap powder, banned from Communist Czechoslovakia, would be given to Czech refugees now living in West Germany.

The machines were sent to Europe last December by an American manufacturer for distribution in Czechoslovakia following news convicted of making washing reports that some Czechs had been machines for their wives from stolen parts.

Vacation Doubled, Woman's Age Halved By Space Clock

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Once those first space travelers hit the road, they'll have to cope with many a mystery — but now they'll at least be able to tell the time of day.

A new clock, developed especially to chart journeys into space, was described in detail today. Construction of the clock was revealed five days ago, without elaboration on how it works.

It has some special attractions. For instance, measured by the new instrument, a 42-year-old woman on earth would be only a girl of 23 on Mars. And a two-week Earth summer vacation would be twice as long up there.

The clock is the world's first inter-planetary timepiece. It is designed to show the comparative passage of time — by day, hour, month and year — on earth and on planets in outer space.

"The clock would be a matter of life or death to all space explorers'," said its inventor, Dr. I. M. Levitt, director of the Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.

As an experimental device, this first space clock registers the relative time only on Earth and the planet Mars, but its principles can be used to cover other planets.

It was built by Ralph B. Metzer, 38, of New Holland, Pa., assistant research director for the Hamilton Watch Company, which sponsored the project to turn Levitt's plan into a working model.

Such a clock, Levitt said, is "one of the first pieces of scientific apparati which the world's future pioneers into outer space will require."

They would need it, for instance, in timing departures so as to reach destined spots on a planet in daylight hours and at a suitable season, and also in calculating precise timing of homeward journeys.

Silk Mill Workers Denied Jobless Pay

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 13 (AP)—The State Unemployment Compensation office here said today workers from the strike-bound Federal Silk Mills at Williamsport who asked jobless payments are not eligible.

The ruling can be appealed.

About 400 workers walked out Dec. 28 in what was described as a dispute over failure of the company to pay a bonus and give union recognition. Later the owner closed the plant.

Stage Set For Political Feud

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP) — The choosing of sides in the Democratic primary for governor stretched into Dorchester County today with W. G. Winterbottom Jr. coming out for H. C. Byrd to set the stage for outbreak of an old political feud there.

Winterbottom's choice of Byrd over George P. Mahoney could very well again bring a cleavage with Emerson Harrington Jr. Harrington backed Mahoney in his previous campaigns for office and there's been speculation that he might run for comptroller on Mahoney's ticket.

The fathers of Winterbottom and Harrington, two of Dorchester County's biggest Democratic leaders, had a falling out in 1935 over election of a circuit court judge. Winterbottom backed his brother-in-law against Harrington.

The sons carried on the struggle until recent years when they supposedly buried the ax. But the Byrd-Mahoney race offers a good possibility for resurrecting it.

Mahoney's political gain for the day was announcement of support of three Democratic leaders in Baltimore's 2nd District.

Joining Mahoney's side were State Sen. Hubert P. Barton, who had opposed him in the 1952 Democratic primary for the U. S. Senate, Philander B. Briscoe and John W. Valis, former state delegate. Briscoe managed the reelection campaign of Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore in 1951.

U. S. Apparently Makes Cautious Offer To Do Business With Reds

"Dress Suit" Is Advocated As Top Fashion For Easter

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Designer Maurice Rentner advocates the "dress suit" as the top women's fashion for this year's Easter Parade.

The "dress suit" is his term for softly feminine suits. Many have low, open draped necklines, others feature his "turban drape," swathing the fitted midriff. All are dressy enough for cocktail wear and each is trimmed with a rosebud, sometimes worn front and center on a cummerbund, sometimes at the neckline, sometimes at the back.

One notable suit in the group is of lightweight beige wool with crushed cummerbund midriff and pastel silk shirred lining in the sleeves, to add to the delicate feminine look.

His "turban drape" appears on both suits and dresses. One example is a two-piece cocktail dress of black shantung with a huge sash of white shantung draped about the hips.

On some dresses he likes necklines cut high in front, low in back. A sprightly "white-collar-girl" dinner dress in black silk has bare shoulders and a starched white little-boy collar acting as a halter. A black rose serves as a necktie.

Ben Reig likes short jackets reaching barely to the waist, and straight, tight skirts slightly shorter than those of last season. Some of the jackets are fitted, bellhop fashion, while others flare out like lampshades.

Black and white prints are outstanding in his suit collection, and stark white is featured for cocktail and evening dresses. The silhouette is straight and slim for daytime, bouffant for after five.

The high-waisted empire silhouette is the big thing in Jo Copeland's spring offerings. Suits have high-riding skirts reaching to just below the bust. Dresses are moulded, high-waisted, figure-revealing.

Bra Of Night Club Performer Leads To Man's Undoing

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP) — A night club performer's bra led to the undoing of a Delaware man today and stripped him of his freedom.

Police said they saw 27-year-old Linwood Vible standing on a street corner early this morning with a bra dangling from his pocket.

They took him to the police station and unburdened him of the bra, a pair of long black stockings, two garters, two rhinestone bracelets and $50 in nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars.

Vible explained he had gone to the Gayety Nite Club and the place closed up while he was in the restroom. He said he picked up the articles of apparel and the change from the cash register before leaving the place.

He pleaded guilty to larceny and was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Business Loans Drop

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board said today business loans declined a record 438 million dollars during the week ended Jan. 6 at reporting member banks in leading cities.

Plans To Set Grammer Hanging Date Delayed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP)—Judge Herman M. Moser today ordered postponement of plans to set the execution date for George Edward Grammer, New York office manager convicted of the bludgeon murder of his wife.

The move was taken in view of plans of Grammer's attorney, Joseph Sherbow, to ask the Supreme Court to review the case. Sherbow lost an earlier effort for a new trial before the Maryland Court of Appeals.

An application for a Supreme Court review would have caused cancellation of any execution date which might have been set. Judge Moser had planned to fix the time for hanging tomorrow.

China Gobbling Up North Korea, Dulles Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that Communist China is gobbling up North Korea, "virtually incorporating" it as a Chinese province.

This will make it enormously difficult to reunite Korea peacefully, Dulles said. But he expressed confidence that unification would be achieved eventually, just as he said he believes Germany will be whole again someday.

The secretary appeared before the committee to ask for Senate ratification of a mutual security pact with South Korea. He declared the treaty would discourage Red aggression and help guard peace in the Pacific.

There were indications that ratification would be approved by the committee in short order, particularly since Dulles said it would be "entirely appropriate" for the Senate to emphasize in a statement or interpretive clause that the United States is not bound to back any aggressive moves made by South Korea. Several senators want this made crystal clear.

Czech Refugees To Get U. S. Washing Machines

MUNICH, Germany, Jan. 13 (AP)—Radio Free Europe said today 40 American washing machines and 40 cases of soap powder, banned from Communist Czechoslovakia, would be given to Czech refugees now living in West Germany.

The machines were sent to Europe last December by an American manufacturer for distribution in Czechoslovakia following news convicted of making washing reports that some Czechs had been machines for their wives from stolen parts.

Vacation Doubled, Woman's Age Halved By Space Clock

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Once those first space travelers hit the road, they'll have to cope with many a mystery — but now they'll at least be able to tell the time of day.

A new clock, developed especially to chart journeys into space, was described in detail today. Construction of the clock was revealed five days ago, without elaboration on how it works.

It has some special attractions. For instance, measured by the new instrument, a 42-year-old woman on earth would be only a girl of 23 on Mars. And a two-week Earth summer vacation would be twice as long up there.

The clock is the world's first inter-planetary timepiece. It is designed to show the comparative passage of time — by day, hour, month and year — on earth and on planets in outer space.

"The clock would be a matter of life or death to all space explorers'," said its inventor, Dr. I. M. Levitt, director of the Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.

As an experimental device, this first space clock registers the relative time only on Earth and the planet Mars, but its principles can be used to cover other planets.

It was built by Ralph B. Metzer, 38, of New Holland, Pa., assistant research director for the Hamilton Watch Company, which sponsored the project to turn Levitt's plan into a working model.

Such a clock, Levitt said, is "one of the first pieces of scientific apparati which the world's future pioneers into outer space will require."

They would need it, for instance, in timing departures so as to reach destined spots on a planet in daylight hours and at a suitable season, and also in calculating precise timing of homeward journeys.

Silk Mill Workers Denied Jobless Pay

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 13 (AP)—The State Unemployment Compensation office here said today workers from the strike-bound Federal Silk Mills at Williamsport who asked jobless payments are not eligible.

The ruling can be appealed.

About 400 workers walked out Dec. 28 in what was described as a dispute over failure of the company to pay a bonus and give union recognition. Later the owner closed the plant.

Stage Set For Political Feud

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP) — The choosing of sides in the Democratic primary for governor stretched into Dorchester County today with W. G. Winterbottom Jr. coming out for H. C. Byrd to set the stage for outbreak of an old political feud there.

Winterbottom's choice of Byrd over George P. Mahoney could very well again bring a cleavage with Emerson Harrington Jr. Harrington backed Mahoney in his previous campaigns for office and there's been speculation that he might run for comptroller on Mahoney's ticket.

The fathers of Winterbottom and Harrington, two of Dorchester County's biggest Democratic leaders, had a falling out in 1935 over election of a circuit court judge. Winterbottom backed his brother-in-law against Harrington.

The sons carried on the struggle until recent years when they supposedly buried the ax. But the Byrd-Mahoney race offers a good possibility for resurrecting it.

Mahoney's political gain for the day was announcement of support of three Democratic leaders in Baltimore's 2nd District.

Joining Mahoney's side were State Sen. Hubert P. Barton, who had opposed him in the 1952 Democratic primary for the U. S. Senate, Philander B. Briscoe and John W. Valis, former state delegate. Briscoe managed the reelection campaign of Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore in 1951.

He then wheeled around and ran to the street where he turned the shotgun on his chest. Both died instantly.

Hunters Fined On Game Counts

Fines and costs aggregating $257 were levied Tuesday in Trial Magistrates Court against two hunters accused of violating seven state game laws.

Both defendants, Howard H. Hill and Richard D. Simmons, RD 3, Hazen Road, each paid $102 on charges of hunting deer with a spotlight and $12 for hunting on Sunday.

Hill was fined $22 for not having a license and Simmons paid $7 on the same count. Another count against Hill, that of having a rabbit in his possession during a closed season, was dismissed. The nimrods had pleaded not guilty to all charges.

Game Warden Joseph A. Minke arrested the pair January 3 in the Hazen Road section. They denied using spotlights and said the dead rabbit in their possession ran out in front of a car and was struck.

A legal entanglement at a hearing January 5 caused the postponement of a decision by Magistrate Donald W. Mason. Attorney for the defendants requested dismissal of the charges and said his clients were given summons accusing them of "illegal hunting" at the time of their arrest.

Later, the counsel said, Minke swore out other charges.

Minke yesterday said farmers in the Hazen Road area are complaining bitterly about night hunting and shooting. His department's work is centered mostly on spotlight hunting, he added.

Court Of Appeals Hears Argument In Offutt Case

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Trustees of a $369,000 estate asserted yesterday a circuit court judge lacked authority to tap it for more than they figured the beneficiary needs to get along each month.

They asked the Court of Appeals to overrule Judge George Henderson who hiked the monthly allowance for Daniel E. Offutt 3rd of Oakland from $200 to $300 a month.

University Student

Offutt, 22, a student at the University of Maryland, is the son of the late Daniel E. Offutt, who died in 1943. The trustees are State Sen. Neil C. Fraley and William R. Offutt, a brother of the deceased.

They argued Offutt's will gave them alone the right to decide how much to allow the son until he becomes 30. Young Offutt will receive the principal of the trust estate when he reaches 40.

They also insisted the Western Maryland judge should have taken into consideration $2,000 Offutt receives annually from $69,000 in life insurance and bonds.

Lawyers for Offutt contended the trustees' opposition "no doubt stems from their desire" to avoid digging into the principal. Mrs. Karen Offutt, the young man's mother, receives $5,000 a year from estate income.

Inherited Station

Young Offutt's "inherited station in life" also entitled him to an increase without considering other income, they said.

Two Cumberland attorneys argued the case. William C. Walsh represented the trustees and William J. Gunter was young Offutt's lawyer. It was Gunter's first appearance before the Court of Appeals.

In other appeals:

1. Henry Brumage, 41, of Mill Run protested a Garrett County jury verdict of $430 for James A. Blubaugh, 49, of Eckhart. Brumage's truck skidded on an icy Rt. 36 hill into the back of Blubaugh's car, Jan. 10, 1952.

2. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Griffin objected to the refusal by Baltimore Superior Court to nullify a judgment entered by Baltimore Federal Savings and Loan Association for $688 as the balance due on a note signed in 1950. The association had taken the note from National Heating and Plumbing Co. and paid for a furnace installed in the Griffin's Severna Park home.

Radio Equipment Due For Police, Fire Cars

Two-way radio equipment for Police Department cruisers and the fire chief's car is expected to be shipped here by January 28.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long reported on the equipment to the Mayor and Council Tuesday.

Local Trucker Fined

Joseph B. Hardman, city, was fined $95.45 during the week of December 12-19 for overloading a truck weighed by agents of the State Roads Commission.

Plans Being Made To Bury Couple

Relatives of the murder-suicide involving a former Hampshire County man and his former sweetheart prepared yesterday to make final arrangements for their burials.

Carson Morgan Pyles, 48, walked into the A. and M. Cafe on Third Street in Harrisburg, Pa., Monday night, with a loaded .12 gauge shotgun.

He passed through the crowded tavern, found Mrs. Elva Virginia Carr, 41-year-old Harrisburg divorcee and shot her in the back at short range with the sawed-off weapon.

He then wheeled around and ran to the street where he turned the shotgun on his chest. Both died instantly.

Last week Pyles implicated himself, Mrs. Carr and another couple in a breaking and entering near Romney.

Hunters Fined On Game Counts

Fines and costs aggregating $257 were levied Tuesday in Trial Magistrates Court against two hunters accused of violating seven state game laws.

Both defendants, Howard H. Hill and Richard D. Simmons, RD 3, Hazen Road, each paid $102 on charges of hunting deer with a spotlight and $12 for hunting on Sunday.

Hill was fined $22 for not having a license and Simmons paid $7 on the same count. Another count against Hill, that of having a rabbit in his possession during a closed season, was dismissed. The nimrods had pleaded not guilty to all charges.

Game Warden Joseph A. Minke arrested the pair January 3 in the Hazen Road section. They denied using spotlights and said the dead rabbit in their possession ran out in front of a car and was struck.

A legal entanglement at a hearing January 5 caused the postponement of a decision by Magistrate Donald W. Mason. Attorney for the defendants requested dismissal of the charges and said his clients were given summons accusing them of "illegal hunting" at the time of their arrest.

Later, the counsel said, Minke swore out other charges.

Minke yesterday said farmers in the Hazen Road area are complaining bitterly about night hunting and shooting. His department's work is centered mostly on spotlight hunting, he added.

Court Of Appeals Hears Argument In Offutt Case

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Trustees of a $369,000 estate asserted yesterday a circuit court judge lacked authority to tap it for more than they figured the beneficiary needs to get along each month.

They asked the Court of Appeals to overrule Judge George Henderson who hiked the monthly allowance for Daniel E. Offutt 3rd of Oakland from $200 to $300 a month.

University Student

Offutt, 22, a student at the University of Maryland, is the son of the late Daniel E. Offutt, who died in 1943. The trustees are State Sen. Neil C. Fraley and William R. Offutt, a brother of the deceased.

They argued Offutt's will gave them alone the right to decide how much to allow the son until he becomes 30. Young Offutt will receive the principal of the trust estate when he reaches 40.

They also insisted the Western Maryland judge should have taken into consideration $2,000 Offutt receives annually from $69,000 in life insurance and bonds.

Lawyers for Offutt contended the trustees' opposition "no doubt stems from their desire" to avoid digging into the principal. Mrs. Karen Offutt, the young man's mother, receives $5,000 a year from estate income.

Inherited Station

Young Offutt's "inherited station in life" also entitled him to an increase without considering other income, they said.

Two Cumberland attorneys argued the case. William C. Walsh represented the trustees and William J. Gunter was young Offutt's lawyer. It was Gunter's first appearance before the Court of Appeals.

Radio Equipment Due For Police, Fire Cars

Two-way radio equipment for Police Department cruisers and the fire chief's car is expected to be shipped here by January 28.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long reported on the equipment to the Mayor and Council Tuesday.

In other appeals:

1. Henry Brumage, 41, of Mill Run protested a Garrett County jury verdict of $430 for James A. Blubaugh, 49, of Eckhart. Brumage's truck skidded on an icy Rt. 36 hill into the back of Blubaugh's car, Jan. 10, 1952.

2. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Griffin objected to the refusal by Baltimore Superior Court to nullify a judgment entered by Baltimore Federal Savings and Loan Association for $688 as the balance due on a note signed in 1950. The association had taken the note from National Heating and Plumbing Co. and paid for a furnace installed in the Griffin's Severna Park home.

Local Trucker Fined

Joseph B. Hardman, city, was fined $95.45 during the week of December 12-19 for overloading a truck weighed by agents of the State Roads Commission.

Broader Social Security

President Eisenhower's social security recommendations, as outlined broadly in his State of the Union message, include: 1) additional Old Age and Survivors Insurance coverage for some 10½ million workers, 2) progressive reduction and simplification of federal grant-in-aid welfare programs, 3) a stepped-up program for rehabilitation of the disabled. In a related field, the President wants "protection against the hazards of temporary unemployment" for "some 6½ millions of workers, including civilian federal workers, who now lack this safeguard."

In a message sent to Congress on August 1 last, the President asked for mandatory old-age and survivors coverage for some 6.5 million more workers, including self-employed farmers, domestic servants and professional persons not at present covered. At the same time he asked for optional coverage for some four million others, including more employes of state and local governments and clergymen.

Originally the administration had asked for expansion of the social security sytsem at the 1953 session. In his State of the Union message of February 1953 the President had asked that old-age insurance "be promptly extended to cover millions of citizens who have been left out of the social security system."

The August message was sent in the waning hours of the 1953 session to stimulate extensive study of social security expansion by Congress. A House Ways and Means subcommittee, headed by Representative Curtis (R., Neb.), has been conducting the desired investigation, and the new Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been making a parallel study.

The advance in the rate of social security withholding tax from one and a half to two per cent for employes and employers alike will be allowed to remain on the books. The White House announced on January 7, the day of the State of the Union message, that the President would withdraw his previous request that the boost, effective on January 1, be postponed for one year.

According to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, some 66.5 million persons at the end of 1953 were insured under the old-age and survivors program, including beneficiaries. Some 24.9 million were permanently insured; some 41.6 million were fully but not permanently insured. About four out of five workers, including the self-employed, some farm labor, and some employes of state and local governments, were covered. Average benefits were: single retired worker, about $50 a month; retired worker and aged wife, $84; widow with two children, $111.

As for the disabled, some two million persons are in need of federal aid, according to Dr. Howard A. Rusk. As for the unemployed, some 36.2 million workers were covered in 1953 (year average) out of 55.4 million nonfarm workers. This program is administered by the states with federal aid. The Eisenhower program would extend coverage to some 2.5 million civilian federal employes, to some 2.4 million additional workers in small establishments, and to some 0.5 million others.

Class In Form 1040

U. S. Internal Revenue Collector Coleman Andrews knew ahead of time, like everybody else, that income tax rates for 1954 would be slightly lower. Is it entirely coincidence that he chooses this particular time to send high schools a kit of instructions on how to make out income tax returns?

Anyhow, the first returns as to school reaction are good—somewhat to Andrews' surprise. He doesn't have to worry about ridicule or criticism because of the cost of these kits. They cost $60,000 but the taxpayer, he believes, will be saved much more than that in clerical help at the various tax offices where people stand in line for assistance.

The tax people tell everybody: "We don't want you to pay a cent more than you owe." But many an honest person does pay more than he owes—either because of disinclination to study all the fine print of the instructions or because of conviction he would never understand it anyway. A person familiar from youth with income tax forms isn't so likely to get his stomach into a knot later on when he begins to make returns on income he earns.

Along with showing the kids how to fill out the forms, teachers can inject a bit of the philosophy of good citizenship. It certainly will not be amiss for students to learn to examine public expenditures with a critical eye.

Test Case

West Germany is booming. The Organization for European Economic Cooperation, of which West Germany is a member, reports that German trade balances have soared, and that Germany outside the Soviet Zone has a $750,000,000 credit balance in the European Payments Union.

Britain and France, whose troops still occupy Germany along with American GIs, are not doing nearly so well as the nation they defeated—France, in fact, has a debit balance—and both are beginning to be irked by German competition.

American aid has, of course, been a factor, but hard work and political stability have contributed to West Germany's prosperity. German austerity—willingness to hold back on consumption to increase exports and capital growth—has been important.

Particularly impressive has been the growth of German shipbuilding. Her shipping industry and harbors, virtually demolished during the war, have been largely rebuilt. West Germany has displaced the United States as the second largest shipbuilding nation. Britain is, of course, first.

Russia didn't know what she was letting herself in for when she kept Germany divided and built an iron curtain across the country. The result is that her political and economic system is competing in Germany with that of the West. In that sort of contest the Russians haven't a chance.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Cutting The Heart Valve

The surgical treatment of "leakage of the heart" has been one of the great advances in medical science. It proved to be safe considering that those who undergo the procedure are handicapped with an advanced heart trouble. The results speak for themselves in that 76 percent improve and are able to resume normal activity.

Rheumatic fever is the most common cause of "leakage." The mitral and aortic valves are hit hardest by this disease. The valvular leaflets normally have a consistency of kid glove skin but they become swollen and thickened when inflamed and no longer open and close as they should. After infection subsides the leaflets are criss-crossed with scar tissue and 25 per cent of the victims are left with an imperfect valve. One of the most serious abnormalities is mitral stenosis in which scar tissue leaves the opening so narrow, the heart muscle has trouble forcing blood from one chamber to another. To overcome the handicap the old ticker enlarges, but unless the individual curtails his activity the strain increases and after many years the muscle tires and the organ fails to function (heart failure).

The operation is aimed at opening the scarred valve. It requires the use of a special thin blade that is fastened to the index finger. A small incision is made into the left auricle of the heart and the index finger is inserted into the opening to prevent blood from escaping. The knife is on the inside of the heart and by cutting the scarred leaflets, the valve opens to its previous size.

Dr. Robert P. Glover of Philadelphia has done more than 500 such operations. Ninety-four per cent survived the procedure and are alive today. Forty-nine per cent have had excellent results and are able to resume activity without the aid of drugs such as digitalis. Twenty-seven per cent noted similar improvement but required additional medicine to be up and about. Of the remainder, 12 per cent were unimproved and 6 per cent died later.

When the victim of mitral stenosis develops symptoms such as shortness of breath or puffiness of the ankles, the valve is too narrow and the heart muscle is beginning to fail. This is the ideal time to have the operation because the heart muscle still is able to recover from the strain. In addition the heart is in good condition to withstand the operation and the anesthetic.

Following the operation, 24 per cent develop fever and a combination of symptoms lasting 10 days to four weeks. The temperature goes up one to three degrees above normal and the individual perspires so profusely that the sleeping garments and bed linen must be changed several times a day. Some encounter delayed chest distress varying from a dull ache to excruciating, viselike pain. The latter is aggravated by moving, deep breathing, and swallowing. Pulse changes occur and the joints may become swollen and painful. These findings, along with laboratory tests, suggest that the operation is followed by an attack of rheumatic fever.

Many authorities believe that when rheumatic fever attacks the heart, the disease smolders in the valves for the rest of the victim's life. The results of the operation support this concept; the procedure reactivates the disease processes and one in four develop symptoms of rheumatic fever. This complication does not affect the outcome.

SQUEAMISH

A. P. writes: What is wrong with individuals who pass out at the sight of blood or while receiving an injection?

REPLY

Nothing, except that the sight of blood or the thought of having an injection has a reflex effect upon the nervous system leading to a faint.

NOT EDIBLE

E. R. writes: Is Compound F found in foods?

REPLY

No. The substance is an extract obtained from adrenal glands.

REGULATIONS VARY

D. F. writes: Is amebiasis a reportable disease?

REPLY

This depends upon where you live because health laws vary in different localities. In my town, for example, amebiasis is not reportable.

WINING AND DINING

R. T. writes: Does red wine with meals kill intestinal germs?

REPLY

No. This misconception may have arisen because in some countries where the water supply is polluted, wine is a safer beverage. The alcohol in wine stimulates the secretion of hydrochloric acid and in this way helps digestion. The acid keeps the stomach relatively free from germs hence is a far better antiseptic than alcohol. After the acid leaves the stomach, however, it is neutralized by the more alkaline enzymes of the liver and intestine and for this reason has little or no germicidal effect on the intestines.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressman Halleck Has Trouble With Other Fellow's Secrecy; Mother Nature Stirs Up Brisk Cotton Battle; U. S. Officials Feared British Comet Crashes

WASHINGTON — What goes on at a White House meeting is always supposed to be a secret, unless the President himself decides to make it public. However, except during tensed-up wartimes, no White House sessions have been cloaked in such secrecy as Ike's recent meetings with cabinet and Capitol leaders on his legislative program.

The President has personally insured against leaks to the press by pointedly pledging everyone present to keep their lips buttoned. This is necessary, he explains, because discussion at the meetings is "off the cuff," with a free and frank exchange of opinions on sometimes controversial subjects that might be misinterpreted if appearing in the press.

Naturally there will be differences in opinion regarding the legislative docket for Congress, the President points out, adding that he wants to be free to speak his mind with complete candor and that others at the meetings were entitled to the same privilege.

At one session, right after Eisenhower had finished his little speech on secrecy, GOP Congressman Charley Halleck of Indiana caused gales of laughter.

"You know," he said, "I never have any trouble keeping a secret. It's the people I tell it to who can't keep their mouths shut."

King Cotton Debate

Mother Nature has had most to do with knocking congressional heads together regarding the biggest farm battle between the East and west—cotton quotas.

Last summer, California and the come-lately cotton areas of Arizona and New Mexico were at loggerheads with old plantation states of Mississippi, Georgia, and the Southeast. The latter were to have their cotton acreage cut only 25 per cent, while the Far West was in for a 52 per cent cotton reduction.

This meant a loss of about $160,000,000 to the great central valley of California and was almost sure to bring economic setbacks. For the West started to become a really big cotton-producing area only recently, and the cotton-acreage quotas are based on the years 1947-49 and 1951-52. Thus the older cotton states get the preference.

Last summer, senators tried to work out a compromise readjustment of these quotas—without success. Congress adjourned. Still no agreement.

But with the opening of Congress last week, revised cotton quotas were made the No. 1 item of discussion, and there's now a good prospect of agreement.

Reason: The planting season starts soon. If quotas aren't fixed soon, farmers can't curtail. Nature won't wait.

NOTE—The new cotton bill will increase quotas about 3,000,000 acres. Actually, the motive is politics and nothing else. The increase will ease the political situation all right, especially in the Far West, where California farmers are raging mad. But with a carryover of 5,064,000 bales from the 1952 crop, and an additional 2,714,000 bales of the 1953 crop probably unmarketed, this increase may cause trouble later. Experts believe we will have cotton running out of our ears at the end of 1954.

British Comet

A significant, sometimes acrid argument has been taking place between the British and U. S. aeronautic authorities over British Comet jet airliners, which unfortunately now seems settled by the recent crash near Italy.

Civil Aeronautics Administrator Fred Lee had consistently refused to certify the Comet, which caused a storm of resentment in England. Pan American Airways has purchased three Comets from De Havilland for future delivery, but Lee had taken the position that the Comet had not proved itself sufficiently for American certification.

Specifically he had doubts about the ship's tendency to stall at low speeds and its instability in the air. Two of the subsequent seven crashes, at Karachi and Rome, have resulted from stalling. Following this week's crash, the British grounded all Comets. So, despite questions in the House of Commons, it looks as if Fred Lee had been right.

More War Surplus

Assistant President Sherman Adams has been asked to referee a knock-down battle over how to dispose of $10,000,000,000 of surplus property now bulging out of military warehouses.

Included in the 10 billions are everything from old Mexican War saddles and oyster forks to World War II cannon and fighter planes. And what Adams has to decide is whether the Defense Department or the General Services Administration will dispose of how much surplus equipment. This may sound easy, but it's one of the toughest decisions now hanging over the White House.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—What John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, told the Council on Foreign Relations in New York, and simultaneously the nation by radio and television network, is more revealing as a statement of American foreign policy than anything said since the Eisenhower administration began.

For it tells why the military budget is being cut and how the United States is embarking on a long-range program in the world that is not geared merely to emergencies but to a definite plan of defense for all purposes.

Many people must have wondered how troops could be withdrawn from Korea now, why plans were being made for less American manpower in Europe and for substantial cuts in conventional military services. The answer is given by Mr. Dulles, and it is to be found in this paragraph of his address:

Relying On Atom

"Before military planning could be changed, the President and his advisers, as represented by the National Security Council, had to take some basic policy decisions. This has been done. The basic decision was to depend primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate, instantly, by means and at places of our choosing. Now the Department of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff can shape our military establishment to fit what is our policy, instead of having to try to be ready to meet the enemy's many choices. That permits of a selection of military means instead of a multiplication of means. As a result, it is now possible to get, and share, more basic security at less cost."

The secretary of state isn't to be expected to disclose military measures, but the plain meaning of his remarks is that the United States is relying on the atom bomb and the hydrogen bomb and every atomic weapon in its arsenal to repel any military aggression that might come from the Communists in the future.

It must necessarily mean that all plans to outlaw atomic weapons such as Soviet Russia has been proposing have been abandoned and such a ban will never be accepted unless there are such foolproof safeguards as to insure no possibility of an aggression anyhow. This means a system of inspection and an assured method of preventing aggression—which, of course, the present rulers in Moscow are not likely to approve.

So, for all practical purposes, the United States has decided on a retaliatory defense — a defense that doesn't require massive land armies to win an objective but enough striking power from the overseas bases by our Air Force as well as from aircraft carriers of the Navy to make sure that the enemy will not launch an attack in the first place.

Mr. Dulles points out that the policies adopted by the Truman-Acheson administration in Turkey and Greece and through the European Recovery Plan were good but that America was obliged to fight an "emergency action," when it is of the utmost importance to develop a program for the long range. He declares that the "long-time" factor is of critical importance and he hints that a strategy must be adopted by America which can be judged adequate not merely because it wards off "immediate danger" but because of what it accomplishes over what the Soviets call "an entire historical era."

Soviet-Inspired Action

The secretary says it wasn't "sound military strategy to commit our army to fight land battles in Asia," and that this was our decision prior to 1950. Incidentally, General Eisenhower participated in that decision when he was chief of staff of the Army. Mr. Dulles says "it was Soviet-inspired action that pulled us back" into Korea. Mr. Dulles might have added that, while the decision to intervene and to repel aggression in Korea was correct, the failure of the previous administration to provide in advance the military sinews for such a campaign in Korea and later its refusal to use maximum power which apparently now is being sanctioned — was responsible for the lack of military victory and for what is known as "the Korean mess."

Reliance is placed by Mr. Dulles on the "strategic reserve" idea, which means a mobile force. He says it was never "sound military strategy permanently to commit U. S. land forces to Asia to a degree that leaves us no strategic reserves. He says, too, it was "not sound economics, or good foreign policy, to support permanently other countries; for in the long run, that creates as much ill will as good will."

Statements such as these could not possibly be made today by a spokesman for the United States Government if it were not for a basic decision to use maximum military power — including all atomic weapons — if Soviet Russia starts aggression. That is a fateful warning and one needed to be given.

Matter Of Fact

Homecoming Thoughts: Asia

AVON, Conn.

Judging by the optimistic sounds that fill the American air, this is going to be a minority report. The country is being told by all and sundry — most recently by the President himself — that "we have recaptured the initiative" in the world struggle against Communist imperialism. Speaking very mildly, the traveler abroad finds mighty little evidence for this hopeful view. Certainly there is nothing to suggest that we have recaptured the initiative in Asia. In Asia, where this reporter has just made a journey of nearly four months, all the signs suggest the exact contrary. And this is vitally important, since the Kremlin's obvious current strategy is to talk sweet in the West, while continuing to press the attack on the free world's vulnerable flank in the Far East.

The blunt truth is that the situation in Asia has been deteriorating ever since the Korean truce, which we signed in such haste, just when the strain in Korea had brought the Chinese Communists close to the breaking point. This deterioration showed in two quite different ways.

First, the center of strategic interest has been abruptly transferred from Korea to Indo-China, and at the same time the problem in Indo-China has grown far more difficult.

On the spot, to be sure, real gains have been made by the new French military team of Gen. Navarre and Gen. Cogny. So long as these fine leaders stand at the head of a superb French professional army of 185,000 men, there is no immediate possibility of Communist victory in Indo-China. But there is no possibility, either of a French victory in Indo-China, either now or in the foreseeable future. Herein lies the first danger.

French Need Real Hope

After seven years of it, the French were already growing tired of the Indo-Chinese War when we made our truce in Korea. The American example set Paris on fire. Since then, the impulse has been steadily growing, both among the French political leaders and French people, to wind up the Indo-Chinese War at all cost. Ho Chi Minh, Radio Peking and Radio Moscow are all encouraging this French impulse by cooing about a "negotiated settlement."

Any imaginable "negotiated settlement" will mean a Communist take-over the day the French expeditionary force' is withdrawn from Indo-China, if not long before. Yet recent trifling and strictly local Communist successes in the Laos country filled Paris and the French government with a positive fever to start negotiations without further delay. Any future French reverses — and these, alas, must probably be expected — will cause the fever in Paris to mount still higher. It may well become irresistible during the present winter or spring.

There is only one kind of innoculation against this danger in Paris that the French, as they always say, "will do what you Americans have done already." This is to give the French real hope of victory. Unfortunately the crying need in Indo-China today is not for more equipment, but for more bodies in the fighting line. More generous American material aid will help, but it will not help enough. Unless we are remarkably lucky, there will come the bleak question, whether the American government will also help with troops.

To make matters worse, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the military chieftain of the Indo-Chinese Communists, has just the opposite problem from Gen. Navarre. Giap has plenty of men, but not nearly enough supplies. With the strain of the Korean War at an end, the Peking government should easily be able to increase the supplies for the Viet Minh from the present level of about 1,000 tons monthly to at least 4,000 tons monthly.

Chinese Divisions Building

When and if this happens, the strength of the Viet Minh will increase greatly. Thereafter the French are likely to suffer no mere local reverses, but really serious defeats. Furthermore, there is not the slightest safeguard against such an increase of strength for the Viet Minh, in Secretary Dulles's repeated but somewhat meaningless warnings that we shall go to war if the Chinese Communists intervene directly in Indo-China after the manner of Korea.

Such is the situation at the weakest point in the dam that holds back the Communist flood in Asia. Meanwhile, the second and perhaps more important effect of the Korean truce has been to allow the water pressure behind the dam to begin to increase very rapidly. In other words, the powerful military build-up of the Chinese Communist armed forces, which was already going on during the Korean fighting, is now becoming a serious matter for all of Asia.

Hitherto, the flower of the Chinese armies have been pinned down in Korea, and the whole military investment has been concentrated there. But the Korean truce, plus the new Russo-Chinese military-economic aid agreement, have now changed all that. Within a couple of years, instead of 58 modern Chinese divisions in Korea, Peking may have as many as 170 modern divisions to deploy where they will do the most harm. The effect on Communist China's weak and divided neighbors to the south is not hard to foresee.

Indo-China has already taken on the role of an Asian Czechoslovakia — the position that cannot be let go without disastrous consequences.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Focus Of Our Age

Most countries used to mind their own business, the people earning their livelihoods according to their economic habits and traditions, their government concerning themselves principally with domestic affairs. The 1917 revolution in Russia altered the way of life in every country upon this earth because it injected into the affairs of every country the challenge of accepting or rejecting the projection of this revolution and the consequences of the rise of a new universal state.

Stephen Y. Titorenko, in a brilliant address on "The Strategy and Tactics of the Communist Party in the Main Stages of Its Development," delivered in Moscow last December, said of this:

"After the October revolution our party grew from a national force into an international force, the shock-brigade of the world revolutionary workers movement; and the Soviet Republic grew into a lighthouse throwing light upon the way of the working people of the whole world, opening prospects for them in their struggle for freedom and a bright future. The Soviet Republic began to exercise great influence upon the development of the liberation struggle among the working people of all countries by means of her successes in the task of building socialism."

Further, he said:

"After the second World War a whole number of countries in the Central and South Eastern Europe dissociated themselves from the system of imperialism, and the system of people's democracy was established in them. In the colonial and dependent countries a new powerful upsurge of national liberation movement took place.

"The most crushing blow against the whole imperialist system after the October revolution and the victory of the Soviet Union in the fatherland war, was dealt by the victory of the great Chinese people over the reaction of Kuomintang and the foreign imperialists.

"The united and mighty camp of socialism and democracy was formed and grew strong. It counts 800 million people—about one third of the world population . . ."

This is a realistic statement of fact which may never be disregarded in any appraisal of such events as the Korean War, the Indo-China War or the jittery politics of Nehru of India. The next theaters of overt activity of the Soviet Universal State, the ground fully prepared by the propaganda and infiltration by the Marxist church, must be in the Sinio-Hindu areas of Asia.

Stalin, as far back as August 1, 1927, in a classic attack on Leon Trotszky and Karl Radek over the loss of China which the Soviet Universal State had nearly conquered in 1925-26, only to lose it by the defection of Chiang Kai-shek, laid down this law of revolution:

". . . Revolution in imperialist countries is one thing: in those countries the bourgeoisie is the oppressor of other peoples; it is counter-revolutionary in all stages of the revolution; the national element, as an element in the struggle for emancipation, is absent in these countries. Revolution in colonial and dependent countries is another thing: in these countries the oppression exercised by the imperialism of other states is one of the factors of revolution; this oppression cannot but affect the national bourgeoisie also; the national bourgeoisie, at a certain stage and for a certain period, may support the revolutionary movement of its country against imperialism, and the national element, as an element in the struggle for emancipation, is a revolutionary factor. Not to make this differentiation, not to understand this difference and to identify revolution in imperialist countries with revolution in colonial countries, is to depart from the road of Marxism, from the road of Leninism..."

Many American assumptions, particularly those of General George Marshall, were based upon their surprise that so many intellectuals and businessmen in China supported the Communists rather than the Nationalists at a certain phase of the Chinese revolution. They attributed this attitude to corruption within the Kuomintang and among Chiang Kai-shek's entourage. Having no political perception, these Americans assumed that because moral forces in a country favored the Communists at a particular moment, the Communists were to be accepted.

They did not recognize that in the preliminary stages of any revolution, when the Communists form united fronts with intellectual and bourgeois elements, they are most dangerous, for at that moment, they are destroying a people's will to resist them. Many Americans, particularly doctrinaire liberals and pacifistic clergymen, have made and are making the same error; Winston Churchill has made that error from Teheran to Bermuda.

Broader Social Security

President Eisenhower's social security recommendations, as outlined broadly in his State of the Union message, include: 1) additional Old Age and Survivors Insurance coverage for some 10½ million workers, 2) progressive reduction and simplification of federal grant-in-aid welfare programs, 3) a stepped-up program for rehabilitation of the disabled. In a related field, the President wants "protection against the hazards of temporary unemployment" for "some 6½ millions of workers, including civilian federal workers, who now lack this safeguard."

In a message sent to Congress on August 1 last, the President asked for mandatory old-age and survivors coverage for some 6.5 million more workers, including self-employed farmers, domestic servants and professional persons not at present covered. At the same time he asked for optional coverage for some four million others, including more employes of state and local governments and clergymen.

Originally the administration had asked for expansion of the social security sytsem at the 1953 session. In his State of the Union message of February 1953 the President had asked that old-age insurance "be promptly extended to cover millions of citizens who have been left out of the social security system."

The August message was sent in the waning hours of the 1953 session to stimulate extensive study of social security expansion by Congress. A House Ways and Means subcommittee, headed by Representative Curtis (R., Neb.), has been conducting the desired investigation, and the new Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been making a parallel study.

The advance in the rate of social security withholding tax from one and a half to two per cent for employes and employers alike will be allowed to remain on the books. The White House announced on January 7, the day of the State of the Union message, that the President would withdraw his previous request that the boost, effective on January 1, be postponed for one year.

According to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, some 66.5 million persons at the end of 1953 were insured under the old-age and survivors program, including beneficiaries. Some 24.9 million were permanently insured; some 41.6 million were fully but not permanently insured. About four out of five workers, including the self-employed, some farm labor, and some employes of state and local governments, were covered. Average benefits were: single retired worker, about $50 a month; retired worker and aged wife, $84; widow with two children, $111.

As for the disabled, some two million persons are in need of federal aid, according to Dr. Howard A. Rusk. As for the unemployed, some 36.2 million workers were covered in 1953 (year average) out of 55.4 million nonfarm workers. This program is administered by the states with federal aid. The Eisenhower program would extend coverage to some 2.5 million civilian federal employes, to some 2.4 million additional workers in small establishments, and to some 0.5 million others.

Class In Form 1040

U. S. Internal Revenue Collector Coleman Andrews knew ahead of time, like everybody else, that income tax rates for 1954 would be slightly lower. Is it entirely coincidence that he chooses this particular time to send high schools a kit of instructions on how to make out income tax returns?

Anyhow, the first returns as to school reaction are good—somewhat to Andrews' surprise. He doesn't have to worry about ridicule or criticism because of the cost of these kits. They cost $60,000 but the taxpayer, he believes, will be saved much more than that in clerical help at the various tax offices where people stand in line for assistance.

The tax people tell everybody: "We don't want you to pay a cent more than you owe." But many an honest person does pay more than he owes—either because of disinclination to study all the fine print of the instructions or because of conviction he would never understand it anyway. A person familiar from youth with income tax forms isn't so likely to get his stomach into a knot later on when he begins to make returns on income he earns.

Along with showing the kids how to fill out the forms, teachers can inject a bit of the philosophy of good citizenship. It certainly will not be amiss for students to learn to examine public expenditures with a critical eye.

Test Case

West Germany is booming. The Organization for European Economic Cooperation, of which West Germany is a member, reports that German trade balances have soared, and that Germany outside the Soviet Zone has a $750,000,000 credit balance in the European Payments Union.

Britain and France, whose troops still occupy Germany along with American GIs, are not doing nearly so well as the nation they defeated—France, in fact, has a debit balance—and both are beginning to be irked by German competition.

American aid has, of course, been a factor, but hard work and political stability have contributed to West Germany's prosperity. German austerity—willingness to hold back on consumption to increase exports and capital growth—has been important.

Particularly impressive has been the growth of German shipbuilding. Her shipping industry and harbors, virtually demolished during the war, have been largely rebuilt. West Germany has displaced the United States as the second largest shipbuilding nation. Britain is, of course, first.

Russia didn't know what she was letting herself in for when she kept Germany divided and built an iron curtain across the country. The result is that her political and economic system is competing in Germany with that of the West. In that sort of contest the Russians haven't a chance.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Cutting The Heart Valve

The surgical treatment of "leakage of the heart" has been one of the great advances in medical science. It proved to be safe considering that those who undergo the procedure are handicapped with an advanced heart trouble. The results speak for themselves in that 76 percent improve and are able to resume normal activity.

Rheumatic fever is the most common cause of "leakage." The mitral and aortic valves are hit hardest by this disease. The valvular leaflets normally have a consistency of kid glove skin but they become swollen and thickened when inflamed and no longer open and close as they should. After infection subsides the leaflets are criss-crossed with scar tissue and 25 per cent of the victims are left with an imperfect valve. One of the most serious abnormalities is mitral stenosis in which scar tissue leaves the opening so narrow, the heart muscle has trouble forcing blood from one chamber to another. To overcome the handicap the old ticker enlarges, but unless the individual curtails his activity the strain increases and after many years the muscle tires and the organ fails to function (heart failure).

The operation is aimed at opening the scarred valve. It requires the use of a special thin blade that is fastened to the index finger. A small incision is made into the left auricle of the heart and the index finger is inserted into the opening to prevent blood from escaping. The knife is on the inside of the heart and by cutting the scarred leaflets, the valve opens to its previous size.

Dr. Robert P. Glover of Philadelphia has done more than 500 such operations. Ninety-four per cent survived the procedure and are alive today. Forty-nine per cent have had excellent results and are able to resume activity without the aid of drugs such as digitalis. Twenty-seven per cent noted similar improvement but required additional medicine to be up and about. Of the remainder, 12 per cent were unimproved and 6 per cent died later.

When the victim of mitral stenosis develops symptoms such as shortness of breath or puffiness of the ankles, the valve is too narrow and the heart muscle is beginning to fail. This is the ideal time to have the operation because the heart muscle still is able to recover from the strain. In addition the heart is in good condition to withstand the operation and the anesthetic.

Following the operation, 24 per cent develop fever and a combination of symptoms lasting 10 days to four weeks. The temperature goes up one to three degrees above normal and the individual perspires so profusely that the sleeping garments and bed linen must be changed several times a day. Some encounter delayed chest distress varying from a dull ache to excruciating, viselike pain. The latter is aggravated by moving, deep breathing, and swallowing. Pulse changes occur and the joints may become swollen and painful. These findings, along with laboratory tests, suggest that the operation is followed by an attack of rheumatic fever.

Many authorities believe that when rheumatic fever attacks the heart, the disease smolders in the valves for the rest of the victim's life. The results of the operation support this concept; the procedure reactivates the disease processes and one in four develop symptoms of rheumatic fever. This complication does not affect the outcome.

Nothing, except that the sight of blood or the thought of having an injection has a reflex effect upon the nervous system leading to a faint.

NOT EDIBLE

E. R. writes: Is Compound F found in foods?

REPLY

No. The substance is an extract obtained from adrenal glands.

REPLY

This depends upon where you live because health laws vary in different localities. In my town, for example, amebiasis is not reportable.

WINING AND DINING

R. T. writes: Does red wine with meals kill intestinal germs?

REPLY

No. This misconception may have arisen because in some countries where the water supply is polluted, wine is a safer beverage. The alcohol in wine stimulates the secretion of hydrochloric acid and in this way helps digestion. The acid keeps the stomach relatively free from germs hence is a far better antiseptic than alcohol. After the acid leaves the stomach, however, it is neutralized by the more alkaline enzymes of the liver and intestine and for this reason has little or no germicidal effect on the intestines.

Congressman Halleck Has Trouble With Other Fellow's Secrecy; Mother Nature Stirs Up Brisk Cotton Battle; U. S. Officials Feared British Comet Crashes

WASHINGTON — What goes on at a White House meeting is always supposed to be a secret, unless the President himself decides to make it public. However, except during tensed-up wartimes, no White House sessions have been cloaked in such secrecy as Ike's recent meetings with cabinet and Capitol leaders on his legislative program.

The President has personally insured against leaks to the press by pointedly pledging everyone present to keep their lips buttoned. This is necessary, he explains, because discussion at the meetings is "off the cuff," with a free and frank exchange of opinions on sometimes controversial subjects that might be misinterpreted if appearing in the press.

Naturally there will be differences in opinion regarding the legislative docket for Congress, the President points out, adding that he wants to be free to speak his mind with complete candor and that others at the meetings were entitled to the same privilege.

At one session, right after Eisenhower had finished his little speech on secrecy, GOP Congressman Charley Halleck of Indiana caused gales of laughter.

"You know," he said, "I never have any trouble keeping a secret. It's the people I tell it to who can't keep their mouths shut."

King Cotton Debate

Mother Nature has had most to do with knocking congressional heads together regarding the biggest farm battle between the East and west—cotton quotas.

Last summer, California and the come-lately cotton areas of Arizona and New Mexico were at loggerheads with old plantation states of Mississippi, Georgia, and the Southeast. The latter were to have their cotton acreage cut only 25 per cent, while the Far West was in for a 52 per cent cotton reduction.

This meant a loss of about $160,000,000 to the great central valley of California and was almost sure to bring economic setbacks. For the West started to become a really big cotton-producing area only recently, and the cotton-acreage quotas are based on the years 1947-49 and 1951-52. Thus the older cotton states get the preference.

Last summer, senators tried to work out a compromise readjustment of these quotas—without success. Congress adjourned. Still no agreement.

But with the opening of Congress last week, revised cotton quotas were made the No. 1 item of discussion, and there's now a good prospect of agreement.

Reason: The planting season starts soon. If quotas aren't fixed soon, farmers can't curtail. Nature won't wait.

NOTE—The new cotton bill will increase quotas about 3,000,000 acres. Actually, the motive is politics and nothing else. The increase will ease the political situation all right, especially in the Far West, where California farmers are raging mad. But with a carryover of 5,064,000 bales from the 1952 crop, and an additional 2,714,000 bales of the 1953 crop probably unmarketed, this increase may cause trouble later. Experts believe we will have cotton running out of our ears at the end of 1954.

British Comet

A significant, sometimes acrid argument has been taking place between the British and U. S. aeronautic authorities over British Comet jet airliners, which unfortunately now seems settled by the recent crash near Italy.

Civil Aeronautics Administrator Fred Lee had consistently refused to certify the Comet, which caused a storm of resentment in England. Pan American Airways has purchased three Comets from De Havilland for future delivery, but Lee had taken the position that the Comet had not proved itself sufficiently for American certification.

Specifically he had doubts about the ship's tendency to stall at low speeds and its instability in the air. Two of the subsequent seven crashes, at Karachi and Rome, have resulted from stalling. Following this week's crash, the British grounded all Comets. So, despite questions in the House of Commons, it looks as if Fred Lee had been right.

More War Surplus

Assistant President Sherman Adams has been asked to referee a knock-down battle over how to dispose of $10,000,000,000 of surplus property now bulging out of military warehouses.

Included in the 10 billions are everything from old Mexican War saddles and oyster forks to World War II cannon and fighter planes. And what Adams has to decide is whether the Defense Department or the General Services Administration will dispose of how much surplus equipment. This may sound easy, but it's one of the toughest decisions now hanging over the White House.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—What John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, told the Council on Foreign Relations in New York, and simultaneously the nation by radio and television network, is more revealing as a statement of American foreign policy than anything said since the Eisenhower administration began.

For it tells why the military budget is being cut and how the United States is embarking on a long-range program in the world that is not geared merely to emergencies but to a definite plan of defense for all purposes.

Many people must have wondered how troops could be withdrawn from Korea now, why plans were being made for less American manpower in Europe and for substantial cuts in conventional military services. The answer is given by Mr. Dulles, and it is to be found in this paragraph of his address:

Relying On Atom

"Before military planning could be changed, the President and his advisers, as represented by the National Security Council, had to take some basic policy decisions. This has been done. The basic decision was to depend primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate, instantly, by means and at places of our choosing. Now the Department of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff can shape our military establishment to fit what is our policy, instead of having to try to be ready to meet the enemy's many choices. That permits of a selection of military means instead of a multiplication of means. As a result, it is now possible to get, and share, more basic security at less cost."

The secretary of state isn't to be expected to disclose military measures, but the plain meaning of his remarks is that the United States is relying on the atom bomb and the hydrogen bomb and every atomic weapon in its arsenal to repel any military aggression that might come from the Communists in the future.

It must necessarily mean that all plans to outlaw atomic weapons such as Soviet Russia has been proposing have been abandoned and such a ban will never be accepted unless there are such foolproof safeguards as to insure no possibility of an aggression anyhow. This means a system of inspection and an assured method of preventing aggression—which, of course, the present rulers in Moscow are not likely to approve.

So, for all practical purposes, the United States has decided on a retaliatory defense — a defense that doesn't require massive land armies to win an objective but enough striking power from the overseas bases by our Air Force as well as from aircraft carriers of the Navy to make sure that the enemy will not launch an attack in the first place.

Mr. Dulles points out that the policies adopted by the Truman-Acheson administration in Turkey and Greece and through the European Recovery Plan were good but that America was obliged to fight an "emergency action," when it is of the utmost importance to develop a program for the long range. He declares that the "long-time" factor is of critical importance and he hints that a strategy must be adopted by America which can be judged adequate not merely because it wards off "immediate danger" but because of what it accomplishes over what the Soviets call "an entire historical era."

Soviet-Inspired Action

The secretary says it wasn't "sound military strategy to commit our army to fight land battles in Asia," and that this was our decision prior to 1950. Incidentally, General Eisenhower participated in that decision when he was chief of staff of the Army. Mr. Dulles says "it was Soviet-inspired action that pulled us back" into Korea. Mr. Dulles might have added that, while the decision to intervene and to repel aggression in Korea was correct, the failure of the previous administration to provide in advance the military sinews for such a campaign in Korea and later its refusal to use maximum power which apparently now is being sanctioned — was responsible for the lack of military victory and for what is known as "the Korean mess."

Reliance is placed by Mr. Dulles on the "strategic reserve" idea, which means a mobile force. He says it was never "sound military strategy permanently to commit U. S. land forces to Asia to a degree that leaves us no strategic reserves. He says, too, it was "not sound economics, or good foreign policy, to support permanently other countries; for in the long run, that creates as much ill will as good will."

Statements such as these could not possibly be made today by a spokesman for the United States Government if it were not for a basic decision to use maximum military power — including all atomic weapons — if Soviet Russia starts aggression. That is a fateful warning and one needed to be given.

But there is no possibility, either of a French victory in Indo-China, either now or in the foreseeable future. Herein lies the first danger.

French Need Real Hope

After seven years of it, the French were already growing tired of the Indo-Chinese War when we made our truce in Korea. The American example set Paris on fire. Since then, the impulse has been steadily growing, both among the French political leaders and French people, to wind up the Indo-Chinese War at all cost. Any imaginable "negotiated settlement" will mean a Communist take-over the day the French expeditionary force' is withdrawn from Indo-China, if not long before. Yet recent trifling and strictly local Communist successes in the Laos country filled Paris and the French government with a positive fever to start negotiations without further delay. Any future French reverses — and these, alas, must probably be expected — will cause the fever in Paris to mount still higher. It may well become irresistible during the present winter or spring.

There is only one kind of innoculation against this danger in Paris that the French, as they always say, "will do what you Americans have done already." This is to give the French real hope of victory. Unfortunately the crying need in Indo-China today is not for more equipment, but for more bodies in the fighting line. More generous American material aid will help, but it will not help enough. Unless we are remarkably lucky, there will come the bleak question, whether the American government will also help with troops.

To make matters worse, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the military chieftain of the Indo-Chinese Communists, has just the opposite problem from Gen. Navarre. Giap has plenty of men, but not nearly enough supplies. With the strain of the Korean War at an end, the Peking government should easily be able to increase the supplies for the Viet Minh from the present level of about 1,000 tons monthly to at least 4,000 tons monthly.

Chinese Divisions Building

When and if this happens, the strength of the Viet Minh will increase greatly. Thereafter the French are likely to suffer no mere local reverses, but really serious defeats. Furthermore, there is not the slightest safeguard against such an increase of strength for the Viet Minh, in Secretary Dulles's repeated but somewhat meaningless warnings that we shall go to war if the Chinese Communists intervene directly in Indo-China after the manner of Korea.

Such is the situation at the weakest point in the dam that holds back the Communist flood in Asia. Meanwhile, the second and perhaps more important effect of the Korean truce has been to allow the water pressure behind the dam to begin to increase very rapidly. In other words, the powerful military build-up of the Chinese Communist armed forces, which was already going on during the Korean fighting, is now becoming a serious matter for all of Asia.

Hitherto, the flower of the Chinese armies have been pinned down in Korea, and the whole military investment has been concentrated there. But the Korean truce, plus the new Russo-Chinese military-economic aid agreement, have now changed all that. Within a couple of years, instead of 58 modern Chinese divisions in Korea, Peking may have as many as 170 modern divisions to deploy where they will do the most harm. The effect on Communist China's weak and divided neighbors to the south is not hard to foresee.

Indo-China has already taken on the role of an Asian Czechoslovakia — the position that cannot be let go without disastrous consequences.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Focus Of Our Age

Most countries used to mind their own business, the people earning their livelihoods according to their economic habits and traditions, their government concerning themselves principally with domestic affairs. The 1917 revolution in Russia altered the way of life in every country upon this earth because it injected into the affairs of every country the challenge of accepting or rejecting the projection of this revolution and the consequences of the rise of a new universal state.

Stephen Y. Titorenko, in a brilliant address on "The Strategy and Tactics of the Communist Party in the Main Stages of Its Development," delivered in Moscow last December, said of this:

"After the October revolution our party grew from a national force into an international force, the shock-brigade of the world revolutionary workers movement; and the Soviet Republic grew into a lighthouse throwing light upon the way of the working people of the whole world, opening prospects for them in their struggle for freedom and a bright future. The Soviet Republic began to exercise great influence upon the development of the liberation struggle among the working people of all countries by means of her successes in the task of building socialism."

Further, he said:

"After the second World War a whole number of countries in the Central and South Eastern Europe dissociated themselves from the system of imperialism, and the system of people's democracy was established in them. In the colonial and dependent countries a new powerful upsurge of national liberation movement took place.

"The most crushing blow against the whole imperialist system after the October revolution and the victory of the Soviet Union in the fatherland war, was dealt by the victory of the great Chinese people over the reaction of Kuomintang and the foreign imperialists.

"The united and mighty camp of socialism and democracy was formed and grew strong. It counts 800 million people—about one third of the world population . . ."

This is a realistic statement of fact which may never be disregarded in any appraisal of such events as the Korean War, the Indo-China War or the jittery politics of Nehru of India. The next theaters of overt activity of the Soviet Universal State, the ground fully prepared by the propaganda and infiltration by the Marxist church, must be in the Sinic-Hindu areas of Asia.

Stalin, as far back as August 1, 1927, in a classic attack on Leon Trotszky and Karl Radek over the loss of China which the Soviet Universal State had nearly conquered in 1925-26, only to lose it by the defection of Chiang Kai-shek, laid down this law of revolution:

". . . Revolution in imperialist countries is one thing: in those countries the bourgeoisie is the oppressor of other peoples; it is counter-revolutionary in all stages of the revolution; the national element, as an element in the struggle for emancipation, is absent in these countries. Revolution in colonial and dependent countries is another thing: in these countries the oppression exercised by the imperialism of other states is one of the factors of revolution; this oppression cannot but affect the national bourgeoisie also; the national bourgeoisie, at a certain stage and for a certain period, may support the revolutionary movement of its country against imperialism, and the national element, as an element in the struggle for emancipation, is a revolutionary factor. Not to make this differentiation, not to understand this difference and to identify revolution in imperialist countries with revolution in colonial countries, is to depart from the road of Marxism, from the road of Leninism . . ."

Many American assumptions, particularly those of General George Marshall, were based upon their surprise that so many intellectuals and businessmen in China supported the Communists rather than the Nationalists at a certain phase of the Chinese revolution. They attributed this attitude to corruption within the Kuomintang and among Chiang Kai-shek's entourage. Having no political perception, these Americans assumed that because moral forces in a country favored the Communists at a particular moment, the Communists were to be accepted.

They did not recognize that in the preliminary stages of any revolution, when the Communists form united fronts with intellectual and bourgeois elements, they are most dangerous, for at that moment, they are destroying a people's will to resist them. Many Americans, particularly doctrinaire liberals and pacifistic clergymen, have made and are making the same error; Winston Churchill has made that error from Teheran to Bermuda.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13—(INS)—Jean Simmons must be beginning to think she's on the auction block her contract is being "sold" so often.

Howard Hughes sold it to Howard Welsch and now Welsch is on the verge of selling to 20th Century-Fox. The deal should be closed tomorrow.

Jean is really a good actress and 20th wants her for both "Desiree" and "The Egyptian." They were very pleased with her in "The Robe."

Although Jean was unhappy when RKO sold her deal to independent Producer Welsch, John Farrow tells me she gives one of her really top performances in "A Bullet Is Waiting." The picture, too, I hear, is good.

Rosalind Russell's co-star in "The Girl Rush," her musical movie comeback, probably will be Humphrey Bogart.

Rosalind leaves "Wonderful Town" June 1—and as soon as she has several weeks rest she'll come back to Hollywood to start the preliminary huddles on the first picture she's made in two years.

Suzan Ball's doctor, Francis L. Engelman, told me that Suzan had been helped greatly by her friends and well-wishers. It's given her a lift and a belief that she'll be all right.

Dr. Engelman told me that he had broken the news to Suzan only Friday that her leg must be amputated at once because the malignancy had not been arrested and would spread.

I asked him if she had had her leg operated on six months ago would she have been spared the amputation. He said it was useless to comment on it. "Now we have to concentrate on getting her well," he said.

That boy explorer—Irving Hoffman, writes from Manila just as he takes off for Hong Kong He says no one in Manila, Saigon and Bangkok can understand why MGM dropped Ricardo Montalban.

"He's a big movie hero in these parts," writes Irving.

"And speaking of big movie heroes, no matter how fat Mario Lanza gets he'd be working here in Manila where they are crazy about his voice and his picture, 'The Great Caruso'.

"This picture has inspired Henry Singer to make a picture in Manila titled 'The Great Singer', and out of this picture," adds Irving, "will come a great star named Terry Azarraga. Terry was a typist when she was discovered by Singer."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

In New York bets are on that Billy Rose and Eleanor Holm, ridiculous as this sounds, will get together again. He wrote in his column what is construed as an apology to the former swimming star.

Scott Brady's date for the "Cease Fire" premiere was Beverly Pabst, pretty heiress to the brewery fortune. She's in town visiting Mrs. Ed Hinton.

Fred MacMurray and June Haver are so head over heels in love they couldn't take their eyes off each other, and the rest of us couldn't take our eyes off them at the CBS party honoring Adrian Murphy, head of this network's radio. Lester Gottlieb is here with Adrian.

It was really a gala night at the Mocambo. Among those who turned out to greet Mr. Murphy were Jack Benny (no, he didn't play his violin), George Burns, the Freeman Gosdens, the Charlie Corrells, Gail Patrick, Corny Jackson, Joan Caufield and Frank Ross, the John Lunds, Eve Arden, Guy Madison, Maureen and John Farrow, Jean Hersholt, Harry Ackerman, Guy Della-Chioppa, Mercedes McCambridge and Fletcher Markel, Barbara Britton, Dr. Eugene Czukor and Jackie Gleason, who stopped briefly on his way to the dinner given him by The Friars.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Lois Estelle Weber Becomes Bride Of M. C. Whitcomb Jr.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Lois Estelle Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Weber, Homewood, Pa., to Merton Calvin Whitcomb Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Calvin Whitcomb, Pittsburgh.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 10 a. m., January 9, in Holy Rosary Church.

The bride, a granddaughter of Mrs. Harry E. Weber, 407 Washington Street, city, is a graduate of Fort Pitt College, where she majored in literature.

The bridegroom, who has been serving with the Navy in Korea, for the past 27 months, will report for duty in California for one more year of duty.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkensburg, after which a reception for 200 persons was held.

Mrs. Weber, and Mrs. John L. Wellington, aunt of the bride, attended the wedding.

Homemakers Board To Meet Jan. 29

Inaugurating a program of quarterly board meetings of the Allegany County Council of Homemakers Clubs, Mrs. John S. Cook Sr. is holding her first executive meeting January 29. It will be at 10 a.m. in the Fiesta Room of Central YMCA.

Mrs. Cook will introduce her officers and project chairmen so that each may outline her plans for the year.

Each club also is to select its part in the pageant, "America Sings," which will be presented in March under the sponsorship of the Homemakers Chorus.

Training meetings for all Clothing chairmen, club presidents and other interested homemakers, will be held in various areas in the county.

The first will be January 26 at 1:30 p.m. in the Lonaconing VFW home; the next, January 27 at 1:30 in the extension office, Cumberland; and the third, January 28 at 1:30 in the Spring Gap Community Center.

As a result of the survey taken in 1953 basic sewing principles will be stressed. The questionnaires reveal a need for fundamental sewing skills, learning to read markings on patterns, to lay pattern on fabric, proper cutting methods and simple dress construction techniques, including setting in sleeve and attaching collar.

Cresap Chapter DAR Make Donations, Discuss Markers

Two copies of the "Daughters of the American Revolution Manual for Citizenship" have been given to the Public Library and 50 to Thomas F. Conlon Sr. for the February class of new naturalized citizens, Miss Ruth Clauson reported at the meeting of Cresap Chapter, DAR, yesterday, which was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Armstrong, 814 Buckingham Road, The Dingle.

The chapter also voted a donation to Bacone College, Okla., an Indian school, to be used toward painting a dormitory; and a donation to the Kate Duncan Smith DAR school, Grant, Ala., for the restoration of the Maryland Health building.

A discussion was held on moving the monument in honor of Colonel Thomas Cresap, which is in Riverside Park. Mrs. John A. Findlay pointed out that it is the only one in the city, and was erected by the Cresap Society and presented to the City of Cumberland in 1919. The stone is from the old home, which was the first in Allegany County, and stood along the canal in Oldtown, which then was in Westmoreland County, Va., before Allegany County was founded.

It was decided to contact Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, to inquire about moving the monument to a place as near as possible to where it now stands, "which is the real Gateway to the West."

Plantings for landscaping around the DAR marker, which has been moved from the location opposite the Six Mile House, to the new bridge at the entrance of the Narrows, were also discussed.

Mrs. Findlay opened the meeting by reminding the members of the obligations of the DAR, which are to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence; carry out the injunction of Washington in his farewell address to the American people to promote "as an object of primary importance institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge," and to cherish ,maintain and extend institutions of American freedom, to foster true patriotism and love of country and aid in securing for mankind all blessings of liberty. The St. James version of the 23d Psalm was read, after which the Lord's Prayer was recited and Flag salute given by Miss Clauson. Mrs. John M. Robb read the president general's message.

Delegates to the state conference March 9, 10 in the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore, were named. They are Mrs. Arch Hutchenson, Mrs. Melville Gimmill and Miss Clauson. A number of members joined the Historical Society.

A round table discussion on "What Daughters Do," was led by Mrs. Findlay Thompson. It was brought out that the society was founded in 1890 and the branches and committees were discussed as well as the fact that the DAR owns a full city block of buildings in Washington which is debt-free and is the largest group of buildings owned by a women's organization in the United States; and supports 13 schools, two of which are built and maintained by the DAR and the other 11 helped by other organizations.

Miss Fan Lloyd was co-hostess and following the meeting tea was served with the table centered with a bouquet of pine and barberry. Mrs. Marshall Miller and Mrs. Robb assisted the hostesses.

Others present were Mrs. Hutchenson, Mrs. Charles Willison, Mrs. Ralph Van Newkirk, Mrs. Gimmill, Mrs. Mason Hill, Miss Mary Brengle, Miss Ida Brandler, Miss Lydia Millman, and Miss Ella Hodgson.

Club Gives $500, Has Program

The LaSalle Mothers Club made a donation of $500 and had a program by the LaSalle Glee Club at the meeting Tuesday evening in St. Patrick's Social Center.

Mrs. Richard McMullen presided and a check for $500 was given to Brother Daniel for the school.

The program by the Glee Club was its first public appearance. The Glee Club was organized a couple of months ago and is under the direction of Frank Fleckenstein Sr., assisted by Brother Charles. Frank Fleckenstein Jr. is pianist. There were approximately 18 boys in the group Tuesday evening. Their selections were "Grandfather's Clock," "Noah's Ark," "There's a Tavern in the Town," and some Christmas songs, including "We Three Kings," "Silent Night," and "White Christmas."

Plans were discussed for a bake sale, to be held sometime in February or March. A committee in charge of arrangements consists of Mrs. Wade Coffey, Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. John Kienhofer, Mrs. Regina Martz, Mrs. Leo Smith and Mrs. George Zapt.

Mrs. Al Furley won the award for the evening, which was concluded by a social hour with the sophomore mothers serving refreshments. Approximately 50 members attended.

A good wardrobe is one that lasts through several seasons with minimum replacements!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

When an important invitation comes along, do you look at your clothes and ruefully lament, "I haven't a thing to wear?" It is the plight of many a woman who has not mastered the art of making the most of her dress budget.

In this connection, it is interesting to note recent comments of three famous dress designers. The first commented that a woman always could be well-dressed with a wardrobe consisting of just five costumes. He placed the emphasis in selection on (1) relation to mode of life; (2) becomingness to figure, type and color; (3) style consciousness; (4) quality.

Last Year's Dress

The second designer's very noteworthy comment was that it is silly to follow extremes — "Nothing is more elegant than last year's dress —if it is good." This designer contended that fashion wisdom lies in composing a wardrobe that will last through several seasons; only part of its should need renewing in any year.

A third designer explained that wardrobe beauty is the result of clothes that convey character; complement but never overshadow their wearer; and that they remain in style because of their classic simplicity.

From the foregoing, you can deduce that being beautifully costumed is not a matter of quantity but quality; not how large your clothes budget but how much you demand for each dollar you spend; not what is the latest foible, your figure and fits into your way of life.

Especially For You

There is something for all in the current trend of fashions—something flattering, becoming, fresh and different to fit into your way of life, define your character, extend the wearability and usefulness of your wardrobe and complement your coloring and figure.

The most fashionable and sophisticated look that you can achieve is your own look, interpreted in its most attractive, most feminine manner!

Police "In Training Courses" Are Lauded

"In training courses" instituted here for the Police Department by Commissioner John J. Long have completed the first year of activity and the police official believes them to be a success.

The courses are held once a month and resulted from the State Police school conducted at the Armory over a year ago. Each man on the force is included in a session led by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn or whoever is designated.

In January, June, July and October of last year, officers were brought up to date on city ordinances.

February's subject was topics used at the Maryland Police School.

In March, officers heard of new rules and regulations for the Civil Service Board and the standard procedure for placing tags on cars.

April was devoted to public relations and May to Civil Service rules.

August's subject dealt with state law examinations and in September additional instruction was given in the use of the pneolator, the new-type inhalator used by the department.

November and December, the accelerated period for traffic because of holiday traffic, was devoted to acquainting officers how to advise motorists on use of the various parking zones, meters and other regulations.

Cumberland Student Named On Honor List

Donald F. Miller, 9 Ridgeway Terrace, was named on the dean's honor list at the University of Missouri for outstanding achievement during the 1952-53 academic year.

The list included students who made a grade average of 2.75 or better out of a possible 4.00. Miller majored in education.

The three largest automobile makers in the United States turn out 87 per cent of all passenger cars and 80 per cent of all trucks.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

When an important invitation comes along, do you look at your clothes and ruefully lament, "I haven't a thing to wear?" It is the plight of many a woman who has not mastered the art of making the most of her dress budget.

In this connection, it is interesting to note recent comments of three famous dress designers. The first commented that a woman always could be well-dressed with a wardrobe consisting of just five costumes. He placed the emphasis in selection on (1) relation to mode of life; (2) becomingness to figure, type and color; (3) style consciousness; (4) quality.

Last Year's Dress

The second designer's very noteworthy comment was that it is silly to follow extremes — "Nothing is more elegant than last year's dress —if it is good." This designer contended that fashion wisdom lies in composing a wardrobe that will last through several seasons; only part of its should need renewing in any year.

A third designer explained that wardrobe beauty is the result of clothes that convey character; complement but never overshadow their wearer; and that they remain in style because of their classic simplicity.

From the foregoing, you can deduce that being beautifully costumed is not a matter of quantity but quality; not how large your clothes budget but how much you demand for each dollar you spend; not what is the latest foible, your figure and fits into your way of life.

Especially For You

There is something for all in the current trend of fashions—something flattering, becoming, fresh and different to fit into your way of life, define your character, extend the wearability and usefulness of your wardrobe and complement your coloring and figure.

The most fashionable and sophisticated look that you can achieve is your own look, interpreted in its most attractive, most feminine manner!

Police "In Training Courses" Are Lauded

"In training courses" instituted here for the Police Department by Commissioner John J. Long have completed the first year of activity and the police official believes them to be a success.

The courses are held once a month and resulted from the State Police school conducted at the Armory over a year ago. Each man on the force is included in a session led by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn or whoever is designated.

In January, June, July and October of last year, officers were brought up to date on city ordinances.

February's subject was topics used at the Maryland Police School.

In March, officers heard of new rules and regulations for the Civil Service Board and the standard procedure for placing tags on cars.

April was devoted to public relations and May to Civil Service rules.

August's subject dealt with state law examinations and in September additional instruction was given in the use of the pneolator, the new-type inhalator used by the department.

November and December, the accelerated period for traffic because of holiday traffic, was devoted to acquainting officers how to advise motorists on use of the various parking zones, meters and other regulations.

Cumberland Student Named On Honor List

Piedmont Wins 5th PVC Game; Potomac State Scores

Lions Easily Top Ft. Ashby Eagles, 55-27

Huck Miers Quint Wracks Up 9th Win Of 1953-54 Campaign

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., Jan. 13 — Coach William "Huck" Miers' Piedmont Lions easily captured their ninth victory of the 1953-54 basketball campaign and 5th consecutive Potomac Valley Conference triumph here tonight by turning back the Fort Ashby Eagles, 55 to 27.

Holding the Eagles to 11 field goals the defending champions in the PVC snapped a four-game Fort Ashby winning streak with the decisive triumph. It was the first meeting of the two high school quints this season.

Losers only to Bruce High's Bulldogs, the Miersmen made it 9-1 for the season with a 9-4 first quarter lead against the Eagles, increased it to 24-9 at halftime and romped home the victor as Coach Miers cleared his bench. Nine Piedmont players joined in the scoring with Tommy Miller and Scoop Kline pacing the attack with 10 and 11 points.

The Eagles, who have won eight games this season, suffered only their second loss in seven PVC games. They now have an 8-3 mark. High man for the Eagles was Jim Bosley with eight points.

Pirates Peddle Murry Dickson To Philadelphia

Get $80,000 Cash, Lohrke And Hansen

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies today purchased pitcher Murry Dickson from the Pittsburgh Pirates for infielder Jack Lohrke, pitcher Andy Hansen and $80,000 in cash.

Bob Carpenter, president of the Phillies, announced the acquisition of the 37-year old right hander at a press conference in the club office. Carpenter long has coveted the Pirate pitcher, but previously had been unsuccessful in prying him loose from Pittsburgh general Manager Branch Rickey.

Rickey had been trying to acquire several of the younger Phillies in a Dickson deal, but Carpenter countered with several of his reserves and cash. The Phillies' owner finally swung the deal, apparently because of the Pittsburgh need for cash. Rickey recently was refused more working capital for Pirates' operations by club executives.

Carpenter was very pleased with the deal and expressed the opinion that Dickson would greatly strengthen the Philadelphia pitching staff. He said Dickson rounded out what he believed was the top pitching staff in the National League.

A club spokesman said the deal left the Phillies so deep in pitchers that they might be able to swing another trade that would net some badly needed batting punch.

Dickson, 37-year-old righthander, has been with the Pirates five years. He was a 20-game winner in 1951. He won 10 and lost 19 with the tailend Pirates last year. His major league record is 120 victories and 128 defeats.

Lohrke, 29, joined the Phils at the end of the 1951 season. The Phils optioned him to Baltimore in the International League part of last season. He batted .194 in 61 games with Baltimore.

Righthander Hansen is 29 years of age. He hurled for the New York Giants from 1946 through 1950. Released, he was drafted by the Phillies and played for them from 1951 to 1953. Last year his record was no victories and two defeats.

Sain Is Offered New Yankee Pact

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., Jan. 13 (AP)—Johnny Sain, 14-game winner with the New York yankees last season, said today the club had notified him they were sending him a new contract, but that he would stick by his decision to retire.

"I'm happy with my deal here, and I'm going to stay here and sell automobiles," Sain told the Associated Press.

The veteran righthander now operates a new car agency in this East Arkansas town.

Reese Okays Pact With Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, Jan. 13 (AP)—Shortstop Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn captain who turned down a chance to be player-manager of the club, became the first Dodger to agree to terms for 1954 today. He okayed the offer in a telephone conversation with Vice President E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi.

Terms were not announced. It was reported Reese received about $36,000 last year. The club did not say whether he was given an increase or the same salary.

Landry Is Signed As Defense Coach

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP) — Tom Landry, one of the original "umbrella" men of the New York football Giants pass defense, was signed today as a Giant defensive coach for 1954.

Landry, 29 years old, will be available to play if necessary, but his primary job will be teaching defense. For the past five seasons he has been the Giants' best defensive back and their best punter.

Penn State Wins

MORGANTOWN, W.Va., Jan. 13 (AP)—Giant Jesse Arnelle racked up 24 points tonight to lead Penn State to a 74-66 victory over West Virginia University.

NCAA Retains Single Platoon Football Rule

Further Study Is Planned By Group

The NCAA Football Rules Committee, after hearing some 40 proposals to liberalize the limited substitution rule, turned them all down in today's final session.

"One-platoon football found increasing favor among the public, the coaches, the players and everybody during the 1953 season," said Committee Secretary E. E. Wieman, from the University of Denver.

"We were not willing to make any changes until we have had another year of experience with it."

The committee strongly condemned the faking of injuries to stop the clock and the "sucker shift" which is intended to pull the opposition offside.

No rules changes were made but the committee pleaded with the country's college coaches to eliminate "this unethical practice from the great American game for which they have a primary responsibility."

Among the proposals for liberalizing the substitution rule was one from the American College Football Coaches Assn. asking that players be allowed to reenter a game once in each period.

"We did not look upon this recommendation with disfavor," said Committee Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler of the University of Michigan. "The general feeling was just that the rule ought to be left alone until the coaches and players catch up with it.

Under present rules, a player taken out in the first and third periods may not be returned during those periods. A player removed in the second and fourth quarters may go back only in the last four minutes before the half and the end of the game.

A sub-committee was appointed to work with the coaches in a further study during the 1954 season and to bring back a report to the Rules Committee next year.

The committee increased the penalty for sideline interference. This problem hit the headlines last New Year's Day when Tommy Lewis, Alabama fullback, rushed off the bench to tackle a Rice runner who seemed to be on his way to a touchdown.

Present rules provide that a touchdown should be awarded in such cases and Rice was given a score against Alabama. The committee retained this rule and added a provision that the offending player shall be disqualified from further play in the game.

Outstanding Blockers Will Be Honored

CLINTON, S. C., Jan. 13 (AP) — Players from three major football conferences will be honored as outstanding blockers here tomorrow night. The occasion will be the annual Jacobs Memorial Blocking Trophy banquet at Presbyterian College.

Receiving awards as leading blockers will be Bill Wohem, University of South Carolina fullback, No. 1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference; Crawford Mims, Mississippi's All-America guard, Southeastern Conference winner; and Tommy Allman, West Virginia fullback, tops in the Southern Conference.

Cats Capture First Victory Over Shepherd

Cool, Sissleberger Score 41 To Lead 80-77 Upset Of Rams

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 13 (AP)—Potomac State's Catamounts recorded their first basketball victory of the season here tonight, spilling Shepherd's Rams by an 80-77 count in a West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference battle.

Shepherd held a 45-41 lead at halftime, but the visitors poured in 19 points to the Rams' nine in the third quarter to take a 60-54 lead. Then, early in the fourth period, Potomac ran up a 10-point bulge that Shepherd was unable to overcome.

Gerald Cool and Lee Sissleberger paced the victors with 21 and 20 points respectively, but Shepherd's John Poling took individual scoring honors with 22.

The victory snapped an eight-game losing streak for Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's quintet, believed to be the longest losing streak ever suffered by a team under the Potomac State mentor.

Potomac State	....	20	21	19	20—80

NC State Not After Jim Tatum

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 13 (AP) — North Carolina State athletic officials came to Richmond today to get some advice and not to try to woo football Coach Jim Tatum away from the University of Maryland.

So both Tatum and state representatives said after they had conferred for nearly six hours in a 10th floor hotel room.

Tatum told reporters he has "never been offered a job at North Carolina State—today or any other day."

"I am perfectly happy at the University of Maryland," Tatum said. "Somebody has the wrong idea about this meeting. I am here in an advisory capacity only—to help State set up a good athletic organization."

State officials said virtually the same thing as Tatum. They are seeking a new head coach to succeed Horace (Horse) Hendrickson, who resigned after the 1953 season when the Wolfpack had its worst record in the school's history. State won only one of 10 games last autumn.

St. Mary's To Host SS. Peter & Paul

St. Mary's, holder of third place, will attempt to break the six-game winning skein of SS. Peter and Paul when they hook up tonight at 7:30 o'clock on St. Mary's court.

The South Enders own a 4-2 record.

A doubleheader is set for SS. Peter and Paul court tonight with games set for 7 and 8 o'clock. St. Michael's of Frostburg will oppose St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage and St. Peter's of Westernport will collide with St. Patrick's of Cumberland.

Pen Mar Baseball League To Meet

The Pen Mar Baseball League will hold a meeting Sunday, January 17, at 2 p.m. at Melody Manor, Barrelville, officials said last night. All persons interested in entering teams in the circuit for next season are invited to attend.

The six-team loop was composed of Zihlman, Barrelville, Wellersburg, Keyser Ridge, Salisbury and Meyersdale last year.

Games Site Changed

Games this Saturday in the Central YMCA Sunday School League, scheduled to be played at Allegany High School, have been moved to the Boys Gym at Fort Hill.

The 11 a. m. game between Park Place and Cresaptown will be played at the YMCA instead of Fort Hill, Clifton Van Roby, "Y" director announced.

Art Lewis And Bobby Dodd Are Colts Coach Prospects

9 Applicants Vie For Baltimore Post

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts are going to pick their 1954 football coach from a list of nine, including Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech and Art Lewis of West Virginia.

Carroll Rosenbloom, the principal owner, said today the nine prospects were weeded out of 33 applicants. Dodd and Lewis, opposing coaches in the last Sugar Bowl, were surprise members of the listing by Rosenbloom.

The new coach actually will be one of eight since Rosenbloom included Keith Molesworth, last year's coach of the Colts in their return to the National Football League, on the list of nine.

However, Rosenbloom paved the way for Molesworth's removal to another job with the organization by saying "There is no objection to Moley whatever, but perhaps he can help us better in some other capacity."

The eight besides Dodd and Lewis are Steve Owen, recently deposed head coach of the New York Giants, George Wilson, Detroit Lion assistant, Wilbur Ewbank and Blanton Collier, assistants with the Cleveland Browns, Norman Strader, former New York Yankee coach, and Ray Richards, Colt line coach.

Richards has served notice that if the Colts don't raise his pay he will take a job as assistant to Joe Stydahar of the Chicago Cardinals.

Charles Wins KO In Second Round

Charles lashed out with a ponderous left to send Satterfield flat on his back in 1:00 of the second round of a scheduled 10-rounder at the Chicago Stadium.

The 32-year-old Charles, 189, was a 7-2 favorite to dispose of Satterfield, 180, and the Cincinnati Negro went at his task with vicious vigor at the start of the second round.

It was Charles' 86th victory against 10 defeats and his second in a row since a TKO of Coley Wallace at San Francisco, Dec. 16.

Browns Increase Prices Of Tickets

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Cleveland Browns today increased ticket prices to their National Football league games so that the best reserved seats will bring $4 next season, compared with $3.60 last year.

The boost is the first for the club here since it was organized in 1946. The management said the hike was justified because ticket prices here "have been the lowest in the league, even though the team's total payroll annually is the highest in the circuit."

Trice And Scheib Ink A's Contracts

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (INS) —The Philadelphia Athletics announced today the signing of pitchers Carl Scheib and Bob Trice to 1954 contracts, bringing to four the number of players in the fold.

Scheib won three and lost seven for the A's in 1953 with an earned run average of 4.88. Trice recorded a 21-10 record with Ottawa last season before coming to Philadelphia where he took two and dropped one.

Joe Dobson Returns To Boston Red Sox

BOSTON, Jan. 13 (AP) — The return of Joe Dobson, 37-year-old righthanded pitcher to the Boston Red Sox fold was announced today by General Manager Joe Cronin.

Dobson, given his unconditional release by the Chicago White Sox late last season, now makes his home in suburban Needham.

A native of Durant, Okla., Dobson broke into the majors with the Cleveland Indians in 1939. He was traded to the Red Sox in 1941 and from then through 1950, minus two seasons in the military service, he won a total of 113 games as a Boston pitcher, reaching his peak in 1947 with an 18-8 record.

Simmons Joins Phils Holdouts, Seeks Pay Raise

Hurler Wants Raise After 16-13 Record

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (AP) — Curt Simmons, the fireballing southpaw, today added his no to the chorus greeting the 1954 contract offers of President Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Simmons, his next door neighbor, Robin Roberts, and teammates Richie Ashburn and Smoky Burgess, all have returned unsigned contracts to Carpenter. Roberts flatly refused a cut, while Ashburn, Burgess and Simmons all demanded more of that green stuff.

The 24-year-old Simmons said today he told owner Carpenter that he needed more than last year's salary to keep the fire warm in his new ranch house in suburban Meadowbrook. The Phillies are believed to have paid the left hander in the vicinity of $17,500.

"I was offered the same contract I signed last year, and I think I'm entitled to a raise," said Simmons. He pointed out that 1953 was his second best season for games won. Simmons won 16 and lost 13, despite losing almost a month when he caught his foot in a lawn mower and had part of a big toe amputated.

Huck Miers Quint Wracks Up 9th Win Of 1953-54 Campaign

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., Jan. 13 — Coach William "Huck" Miers' Piedmont Lions easily captured their ninth victory of the 1953-54 basketball campaign and 5th consecutive Potomac Valley Conference triumph here tonight by turning back the Fort Ashby Eagles, 55 to 27.

Pirates Peddle Murry Dickson To Philadelphia

Get $80,000 Cash, Lohrke And Hansen

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies today purchased pitcher Murry Dickson from the Pittsburgh Pirates for infielder Jack Lohrke, pitcher Andy Hansen and $80,000 in cash.

Bob Carpenter, president of the Phillies, announced the acquisition of the 37-year old right hander at a press conference in the club office. Carpenter long has coveted the Pirate pitcher, but previously had been unsuccessful in prying him loose from Pittsburgh general Manager Branch Rickey.

Rickey had been trying to acquire several of the younger Phillies in a Dickson deal, but Carpenter countered with several of his reserves and cash. The Phillies' owner finally swung the deal, apparently because of the Pittsburgh need for cash. Rickey recently was refused more working capital for Pirates' operations by club executives.

Carpenter was very pleased with the deal and expressed the opinion that Dickson would greatly strengthen the Philadelphia pitching staff. He said Dickson rounded out what he believed was the top pitching staff in the National League.

A club spokesman said the deal left the Phillies so deep in pitchers that they might be able to swing another trade that would net some badly needed batting punch.

Dickson, 37-year-old righthander, has been with the Pirates five years. He was a 20-game winner in 1951. He won 10 and lost 19 with the tailend Pirates last year. His major league record is 120 victories and 128 defeats.

Lohrke, 29, joined the Phils at the end of the 1951 season. The Phils optioned him to Baltimore in the International League part of last season. He batted .194 in 61 games with Baltimore.

Righthander Hansen is 29 years of age. He hurled for the New York Giants from 1946 through 1950. Released, he was drafted by the Phillies and played for them from 1951 to 1953. Last year his record was no victories and two defeats.

Sain Is Offered New Yankee Pact

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., Jan. 13 (AP)—Johnny Sain, 14-game winner with the New York yankees last season, said today the club had notified him they were sending him a new contract, but that he would stick by his decision to retire.

"I'm happy with my deal here, and I'm going to stay here and sell automobiles," Sain told the Associated Press.

The veteran righthander now operates a new car agency in this East Arkansas town.

Reese Okays Pact With Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, Jan. 13 (AP)—Shortstop Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn captain who turned down a chance to be player-manager of the club, became the first Dodger to agree to terms for 1954 today. He okayed the offer in a telephone conversation with Vice President E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi.

Terms were not announced. It was reported Reese received about $36,000 last year. The club did not say whether he was given an increase or the same salary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP) — Tom Landry, one of the original "umbrella" men of the New York football Giants pass defense, was signed today as a Giant defensive coach for 1954.

Landry, 29 years old, will be available to play if necessary, but his primary job will be teaching defense. For the past five seasons he has been the Giants' best defensive back and their best punter.

NCAA Retains Single Platoon Football Rule

Further Study Is Planned By Group

The NCAA Football Rules Committee, after hearing some 40 proposals to liberalize the limited substitution rule, turned them all down in today's final session.

"One-platoon football found increasing favor among the public, the coaches, the players and everybody during the 1953 season," said Committee Secretary E. E. Wieman, from the University of Denver.

"We were not willing to make any changes until we have had another year of experience with it."

The committee strongly condemned the faking of injuries to stop the clock and the "sucker shift" which is intended to pull the opposition offside.

No rules changes were made but the committee pleaded with the country's college coaches to eliminate "this unethical practice from the great American game for which they have a primary responsibility."

Among the proposals for liberalizing the substitution rule was one from the American College Football Coaches Assn. asking that players be allowed to reenter a game once in each period.

"We did not look upon this recommendation with disfavor," said Committee Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler of the University of Michigan. "The general feeling was just that the rule ought to be left alone until the coaches and players catch up with it.

Under present rules, a player taken out in the first and third periods may not be returned during those periods. A player removed in the second and fourth quarters may go back only in the last four minutes before the half and the end of the game.

A sub-committee was appointed to work with the coaches in a further study during the 1954 season and to bring back a report to the Rules Committee next year.

The committee increased the penalty for sideline interference. This problem hit the headlines last New Year's Day when Tommy Lewis, Alabama fullback, rushed off the bench to tackle a Rice runner who seemed to be on his way to a touchdown.

Present rules provide that a touchdown should be awarded in such cases and Rice was given a score against Alabama. The committee retained this rule and added a provision that the offending player shall be disqualified from further play in the game.

Receiving awards as leading blockers will be Bill Wohem, University of South Carolina fullback, No. 1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference; Crawford Mims, Mississippi's All-America guard, Southeastern Conference winner; and Tommy Allman, West Virginia fullback, tops in the Southern Conference.

Cats Capture First Victory Over Shepherd

Cool, Sissleberger Score 41 To Lead 80-77 Upset Of Rams

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 13 (AP)—Potomac State's Catamounts recorded their first basketball victory of the season here tonight, spilling Shepherd's Rams by an 80-77 count in a West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference battle.

Shepherd held a 45-41 lead at halftime, but the visitors poured in 19 points to the Rams' nine in the third quarter to take a 60-54 lead. Then, early in the fourth period, Potomac ran up a 10-point bulge that Shepherd was unable to overcome.

Gerald Cool and Lee Sissleberger paced the victors with 21 and 20 points respectively, but Shepherd's John Poling took individual scoring honors with 22.

The victory snapped an eight-game losing streak for Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's quintet, believed to be the longest losing streak ever suffered by a team under the Potomac State mentor.

Potomac State	20	21	19	20—80

NC State Not After Jim Tatum

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 13 (AP) — North Carolina State athletic officials came to Richmond today to get some advice and not to try to woo football Coach Jim Tatum away from the University of Maryland.

So both Tatum and state representatives said after they had conferred for nearly six hours in a 10th floor hotel room.

Tatum told reporters he has "never been offered a job at North Carolina State—today or any other day."

"I am perfectly happy at the University of Maryland," Tatum said. "Somebody has the wrong idea about this meeting. I am here in an advisory capacity only—to help State set up a good athletic organization."

State officials said virtually the same thing as Tatum. They are seeking a new head coach to succeed Horace (Horse) Hendrickson, who resigned after the 1953 season when the Wolfpack had its worst record in the school's history. State won only one of 10 games last autumn.

St. Mary's To Host SS. Peter & Paul

St. Mary's, holder of third place, will attempt to break the six-game winning skein of SS. Peter and Paul when they hook up tonight at 7:30 o'clock on St. Mary's court.

The South Enders own a 4-2 record.

A doubleheader is set for SS. Peter and Paul court tonight with games set for 7 and 8 o'clock. St. Michael's of Frostburg will oppose St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage and St. Peter's of Westernport will collide with St. Patrick's of Cumberland.

Art Lewis And Bobby Dodd Are Colts Coach Prospects

9 Applicants Vie For Baltimore Post

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts are going to pick their 1954 football coach from a list of nine, including Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech and Art Lewis of West Virginia.

Carroll Rosenbloom, the principal owner, said today the nine prospects were weeded out of 33 applicants. Dodd and Lewis, opposing coaches in the last Sugar Bowl, were surprise members of the listing by Rosenbloom.

The new coach actually will be one of eight since Rosenbloom included Keith Molesworth, last year's coach of the Colts in their return to the National Football League, on the list of nine.

However, Rosenbloom paved the way for Molesworth's removal to another job with the organization by saying "There is no objection to Moley whatever, but perhaps he can help us better in some other capacity."

The eight besides Dodd and Lewis are Steve Owen, recently deposed head coach of the New York Giants, George Wilson, Detroit Lion assistant, Wilbur Ewbank and Blanton Collier, assistants with the Cleveland Browns, Norman Strader, former New York Yankee coach, and Ray Richards, Colt line coach.

Richards has served notice that if the Colts don't raise his pay he will take a job as assistant to Joe Stydahar of the Chicago Cardinals.

Charles Wins KO In Second Round

Browns Increase Prices Of Tickets

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Cleveland Browns today increased ticket prices to their National Football league games so that the best reserved seats will bring $4 next season, compared with $3.60 last year.

The boost is the first for the club here since it was organized in 1946. The management said the hike was justified because ticket prices here "have been the lowest in the league, even though the team's total payroll annually is the highest in the circuit."

Trice And Scheib Ink A's Contracts

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (INS) —The Philadelphia Athletics announced today the signing of pitchers Carl Scheib and Bob Trice to 1954 contracts, bringing to four the number of players in the fold.

Scheib won three and lost seven for the A's in 1953 with an earned run average of 4.88. Trice recorded a 21-10 record with Ottawa last season before coming to Philadelphia where he took two and dropped one.

Simmons Joins Phils Holdouts, Seeks Pay Raise

Hurler Wants Raise After 16-13 Record

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (AP) — Curt Simmons, the fireballing southpaw, today added his no to the chorus greeting the 1954 contract offers of President Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Simmons, his next door neighbor, Robin Roberts, and teammates Richie Ashburn and Smoky Burgess, all have returned unsigned contracts to Carpenter. Roberts flatly refused a cut, while Ashburn, Burgess and Simmons all demanded more of that green stuff.

The 24-year-old Simmons said today he told owner Carpenter that he needed more than last year's salary to keep the fire warm in his new ranch house in suburban Meadowbrook. The Phillies are believed to have paid the left hander in the vicinity of $17,500.

"I was offered the same contract I signed last year, and I think I'm entitled to a raise," said Simmons. He pointed out that 1953 was his second best season for games won. Simmons won 16 and lost 13, despite losing almost a month when he caught his foot in a lawn mower and had part of a big toe amputated.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (INS) —Venerable Tom Connolly — a veteran of 60 years in organized baseball—retired today.

Connolly, now 83, officiated on the league's opening day of 1901. He was with the National League for the 1898-1900 seasons before casting his lot with the AL.

During his 31 years of officiating as an umpire prior to being named arbiter-in-chief in June 1931, Connolly once covered a period of 10 years without giving the thumb to a player.

Connolly was named last September—along with the late Bill Klem, famed National League umpire—to Baseball's Hall of Fame.

A member of the game's rules committee for many years, Connolly was credited with many changes in the books—particularly in the National pastime's early rules.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(INS)—The old adage of the Broadway racket guys reads: "Never give a sucker an even break because he wouldn't know what to do with it if he got it."

Despite all the warnings following the collegiate basketball exposes three years ago, we find this confessed gambling chump betting. He claims he bet only on his own folly? Here is a graduate of Columbia University, one of the world's greatest institutions of learning, duly warned by convictions of other chumps, still bucking the percentages.

As a rookie pro, he was getting $9,600 a season but he tossed it all overboard to make a few extra bucks betting with a Bronx rookie by long distance.

There are only two points in his statement that interests us: The first is that he says he bet only to win. The second is that nobody else was involved.

No bookie is going to refuse a bet from any athlete when he knows that athlete is betting on himself or his own team. The bet itself is a good tip to the bookie who can cash in on it.

A bookie will accept a bit on a legitimate 8 to 5 underdog if the odds are small. But if he is asked to handle a big bet on a 10 to 1 underdog he naturally becomes suspicious.

And when bookies refuse all action on a certain athlete or a certain team you may be sure that something is rotten somewhere and the books are taking no chances on getting hooked.

To illustrate: A few years ago we had a stinkeroo fight in Madison Square Garden in which the overwhelming favorite lost to the underdog.

The week before the fight the brother of the favorite was busy placing bets with bookies in Philadelphia. But—he was betting on the underdog—his brother's opponent!

One Philadelphia bookie, who happened to know the fighter's brother, refused to accept a bet. But he proceeded to cash in on his advance knowledge of the outcome.

As for Molinas' second point—that nobody except the bookie knew about his betting—that is going to be a little tough for any district attorney to swallow

We don't know how to stop athletes or teams betting on themselves. We fear that, human nature being what it is, so long as there is greed and the chance for an easy book, we'll have an occasional athlete falling by the wayside and bookies to take his bets.

ENROUTE TO N. Y. — Jack Molinas, suspended pro basketball player who admitted betting on his own team, was reported enroute to New York to appear before the Bronx district attorney and grand jury. The six-foot-six forward was a prize rookie with Fort Wayne Pistons in the National Basketball Association until his suspension for betting on games.

Bronx Grand Jury Probes Cage Bets

To Question Molinas About Entire Career

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(INS)—A Bronx grand jury began an all-embracing probe today of the basketball betting and playing activities of Jack Molinas to determine whether the suspended Fort Wayne star was involved with a pro hoop gambling ring.

Molinas, former Columbia University star and a prize rookie with Fort Wayne in the National Basketball Association, was suspended indefinitely last Sunday after admitting that he bet "on about ten games."

The six-foot-six forward insisted that he bet "only on my own team," and that he never attempted to "rig" or "dump" any games.

He also insisted that he never made any bets while playing for Columbia last season.

Signs As Coach

Paige Seeking Oriole Contract

Ageless Hurler Still Wants To Pitch Ball

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Satchel Paige, baseball's oldest pitcher, said today he wants to pitch with Baltimore next season but he doesn't know whether the Orioles want him.

"I haven't heard a thing from 'em yet," he said. "No contract, no nuthin'. I've heard they asked waivers on me but nobody on the club told me nuthin'."

The ageless righthander expressed confidence he could still pitch in the major leagues but said he would go back to touring with an all-star team if the Orioles handed him his release.

Art Ehlers, Oriole general manager, said no player contracts had been sent out yet. As to whether Paige was wanted, Ehlers would say no more than, "He's on the roster."

Before he sold the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore, Bill Veeck put Paige up on waivers and he was passed by all the other American League clubs.

Tom Connolly, Chief Ump Of American Loop, Retires

Umpired For 31 Years, Named Chief In 1931

By ROBERT GLASS

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (INS) —Venerable Tom Connolly — a veteran of 60 years in organized baseball—retired today.

Retirement of the American League's umpire in chief was announced by League President Will Harridge.

Connolly, now 83, officiated on the league's opening day of 1901. He was with the National League for the 1898-1900 seasons before casting his lot with the AL.

During his 31 years of officiating as an umpire prior to being named arbiter-in-chief in June 1931, Connolly once covered a period of 10 years without giving the thumb to a player.

Gentleman Tom gave the boys plenty of leeway in stating their case. But when they went beyond the limits, Connolly ejected them.

"High yah, Tommy . . . Remember that day you tossed me?"

Connolly umpired in the New England League — 1894-95-96-97—before advancing to the majors.

He picks Ty Cobb as the greatest all-around player he ever saw. "He could beat you so many ways," Tom recalls.

The greatest pitcher? Connolly named "the Big Train"—Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators.

Connolly was named last September—along with the late Bill Klem, famed National League umpire—to Baseball's Hall of Fame.

A member of the game's rules committee for many years, Connolly was credited with many changes in the books—particularly in the National pastime's early rules.

Connolly, a widower, lives with his two daughters in Natick, Mass. In good health, he plans to keep in touch with baseball by watching games whenever he can at Boston's Fenway Park.

Giardello, Cartier Sign

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Matchmaker Billy Brown said today he has signed middleweights Joey Giardello of Philadelphia and Walter Cartier for a ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 5.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(INS)—The old adage of the Broadway racket guys reads: "Never give a sucker an even break because he wouldn't know what to do with it if he got it."

We are reminded of that by the latest basketball scandal involving Jack Molinas, Fort Wayne pro star, who has just been suspended.

Despite all the warnings following the collegiate basketball exposes three years ago, we find this confessed gambling chump betting. He claims he bet only on his own folly? Here is a graduate of Columbia University, one of the world's greatest institutions of learning, duly warned by convictions of other chumps, still bucking the percentages.

As a rookie pro, he was getting $9,600 a season but he tossed it all overboard to make a few extra bucks betting with a Bronx rookie by long distance.

There are only two points in his statement that interests us: The first is that he says he bet only to win. The second is that nobody else was involved.

Now let's look at a few of the facts of life.

The bookies had refused any action on games involving Fort Wayne.

No bookie is going to refuse a bet from any athlete when he knows that athlete is betting on himself or his own team. The bet itself is a good tip to the bookie who can cash in on it.

A bookie will accept a bit on a legitimate 8 to 5 underdog if the odds are small. But if he is asked to handle a big bet on a 10 to 1 underdog he naturally becomes suspicious.

And when bookies refuse all action on a certain athlete or a certain team you may be sure that something is rotten somewhere and the books are taking no chances on getting hooked.

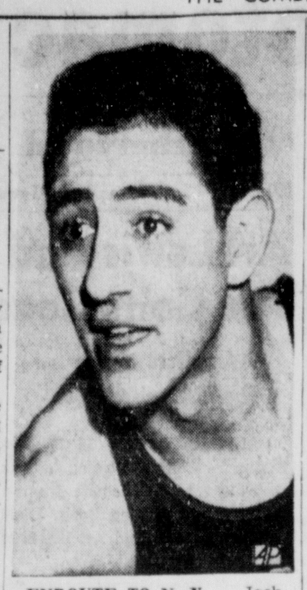

To illustrate: A few years ago w. had a stinkeroo fight in Madison Square Garden in which the overwhelming favorite lost to the underdog.

The week before the fight the brother of the favorite was busy placing bets with bookies in Philadelphia. But—he was betting on the underdog—his brother's opponent!

One Philadelphia bookie, who happened to know the fighter's brother, refused to accept a bet. But he proceeded to cash in on his advance knowledge of the outcome.

As for Molinas' second point—that nobody except the bookie knew about his betting—that is going to be a little tough for any district attorney to swallow

We don't know how to stop athletes or teams betting on themselves. We fear that, human nature being what it is, so long as there is greed and the chance for an easy book, we'll have an occasional athlete falling by the wayside and bookies to take his bets.

ENROUTE TO N. Y. — Jack Molinas, suspended pro basketball player who admitted betting on his own team, was reported enroute to New York to appear before the Bronx district attorney and grand jury. The six-foot-six forward was a prize rookie with Fort Wayne Pistons in the National Basketball Association until his suspension for betting on games.

Bronx Grand Jury Probes Cage Bets

To Question Molinas About Entire Career

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(INS)—A Bronx grand jury began an all-embracing probe today of the basketball betting and playing activities of Jack Molinas to determine whether the suspended Fort Wayne star was involved with a pro hoop gambling ring.

The district attorney's action followed his announcement that he wants to question Molinas about his entire cage career—from high school to the pro ranks.

Molinas, former Columbia University star and a prize rookie with Fort Wayne in the National Basketball Association, was suspended indefinitely last Sunday after admitting that he bet "on about ten games."

The six-foot-six forward insisted that he bet "only on my own team," and that he never attempted to "rig" or "dump" any games.

He also insisted that he never made any bets while playing for Columbia last season.

Signs As Coach

Kuharich, 36, succeeds Larry Siemering, who left the Redskins to take a head coaching post in Canada's professional football league.

Paige Seeking Oriole Contract

Ageless Hurler Still Wants To Pitch Ball

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Satchel Paige, baseball's oldest pitcher, said today he wants to pitch with Baltimore next season but he doesn't know whether the Orioles want him.

"I haven't heard a thing from 'em yet," he said. "No contract, no nuthin'. I've heard they asked waivers on me but nobody on the club told me nuthin'."

The ageless righthander expressed confidence he could still pitch in the major leagues but said he would go back to touring with an all-star team if the Orioles handed him his release.

"No minors for me," he vowed. "They don't pay you enough. It's the majors or nothing."

Art Ehlers, Oriole general manager, said no player contracts had been sent out yet. As to whether Paige was wanted, Ehlers would say no more than, "He's on the roster."

Before he sold the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore, Bill Veeck put Paige up on waivers and he was passed by all the other American League clubs.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of specific performance of a contract made by Robert Graham, Sr., deceased, with Mary B. Kootnz, by the terms of which said contract, the said Robert Graham, Sr., deceased, agreed to devise the property which he owned in Mt. Savage, Maryland, to the said Mary B. Savage, Allegany County, Maryland; that Mary B. Koontz lived with her father over a great many years and carried out the express requests of her father; that at the time of the death of the mother of the parties here, Agnes Rankin Graham, in 1944, Robert Graham, Sr., deceased, father of Mary B. Koontz, informed the said Mary B. Koontz that the said home was to be hers absolutely upon the condition that the Complainant maintain the home for and during the term of the natural lifetime of the said Robert Graham, Sr., deceased; that the said Complainant accepted the said offer and did carry out all of the terms until the date of the death of the said Robert Graham, Sr., on December 23, 1952; that during the last year of the life of the said Robert Graham, Sr., deceased, Mary B. Koontz had to take great care of the said Robert Graham, Sr., deceased, both day and night, which she did willingly; that the said Mary B. Koontz faithfully carried out all of the obligations placed upon her under the aforesaid agreement; that following the death of the said Robert Graham, Sr., an alleged will was offered for probate in the Orphans' Court for Allegany County, Maryland, by the terms of which the property was devised to Mary B. Koontz for life and not in fee. The bill further states that James B. Graham lives in Sheldon, Iowa; John R. Graham and Leona Graham, his wife, live at 574 East Street, Barberton, Ohio; that Agnes Smith and Robert Smith, her husband, live in Rockwood, Pennsylvania; that Jean Barth Forbes and William Forbes, her husband, live in Rockwood, Pennsylvania, and that they cannot be served by ordinary process;

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, (INS)—Once around the air world . . .

Tom Braniff, killed in a Louisiana plane crash last Sunday, was a remarkable man. He amassed considerable wealth in fields as varied as real estate and aviation, and it took great drive to do so. But he was always a self-effacing man who considered it estentatious to take a suite at a hotel or buy the best seats obtainable at the theater.

Ed Pool, of the Kirkeby Hotel organization, his good friend, says that no one can ever even estimate what Braniff gave to charity in his time. He was unable to resist any person or institution in need of money. The most remote employee in his bustling empire was his friend, he considered, and frequent beneficiary of his thoughtfulness.

Braniff lived and died solidly seized with the belief that the future of the United States is irrevocably bound to the future of the hemisphere. He deplored the tendencyy of successive political administrations to pay little more than lip service to our friends in Central and South America. For that reason he fought for and won Braniff airline routes into the lands below the border, bucking the tremendous "lock" which Pan-American had on the business.

One of the all-time ferrying jobs in aviation history has just been completed. More than 350 sabrejets, built in Canada and fitted with engines supplied by the U. S., have been flown 3,100 miles to Britain for service with the RAF.

The job took a year, and the flying was done in all kinds of Arctic weather. A high grade of cooperation between the American, Canadian and British airmen was developed during that time. Dozens of pilots were trained in a host of difficult chores, including how to survive in freezing weather. There were countless tests of equipment, and in some cases new maintenance tools were devised to keep the planes moving on their stepping stones from Montreal to British fields.

Sabena, the little country's airline, celebrated its 30th anniversary last September 1 by launching regular international helicopter service to Lille, in France, Rotterdam in the Netherlands, and to Cologne and Bonn, in Germany. In the first three months of operation more than 3,000 passengers flew out of the heliports at Brussels.

The Belgians use the U. S.-built Sikorsky S-55, have bigger egg-beaters on order. About 75,000,000 persons live within a 200-mile radius of Brussels, an ideal set-up for 'copters. Sabena allows 22 pounds of baggage per passenger, carries infants under two for 10 per cent of normal fare, and asks clients not to bring along their Great Danes.

SEEK YOUR OWN RUFF

MAYBE all the trump leads you can make will not eliminate from the dummy enough trumps to prevent whatever ruffing the declarer requires. In that event, why not look around and see if reversing the process might be a good idea. Maybe, by not leading trumps at all, you can develop a chance to use one or more of your own trumps for defensive ruffing. If that appears the sole possible way to beat the contract, in a rubber game, try it without a qualm.

North: ♠ J 10 4 ♥ A Q 4 3 ♦ 7 4 ♣ Q 10 5 2
West: ♠ A K Q 9 6 ♥ K 8 6 ♦ Q 10 3 ♣ 7 6
East: ♠ 8 7 3 ♥ J 5 ♦ K J 8 5 ♣ A K 9 3
South: ♠ 5 2 ♥ 10 9 7 2 ♦ A 9 6 2 ♣ J 8 4

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

After taking the club 2 lead with the K and leading the heart 5 to the K and A, West gave thanks that North had not led a trump at the outset. Three trump leads would have made it impossible for the declarer to ruff a heart in the dummy. Seeing what West was trying to do, North now led a trump, the J. But after the Q won that, the heart 8 went to the Q and North led his spade 4 to the A, West still had a trump in the dummy and used it to ruff the heart 6. That assured his contract, as the only remaining losable trick was to the diamond A.

North, upon getting in with the heart A, should have reckoned that West did not have four hearts, else he probably would have bid the suit on his second turn rather than rebid spades. Thus, clearly marked with three hearts, it should have been plain that removing two by trump leads would still leave West all he needed in dummy, one.

If North had done that thinking, he might have decided that straining for a ruff of his own was now the only chance, since he had not led a spade originally. If he consequently had led a diamond, and South had been smart enough to let West take it, North's next entry with the heart Q would have placed him in position for a second diamond lead to the A. South's return then of the third round diamond would have given North the ruff which would defeat the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A 8 6 4 ♥ A 8 2 ♦ 10 ♣ Q J 8 3 2
West: ♠ K J ♥ Q 10 7 5 4 3 ♦ K 9 8 7 6 ♣ None
East: ♠ 10 9 2 ♥ J 6 ♦ A Q J 4 ♣ K 10 7 5
South: ♠ Q 7 5 3 ♥ K 9 ♦ 5 3 2 ♣ A 9 6 4

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

What pretty play must East make to thwart South's 4-Spades if the bidding was natural and the early tricks logical?

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, (INS)—Once around the air world . . .

Tom Braniff, killed in a Louisiana plane crash last Sunday, was a remarkable man. He amassed considerable wealth in fields as varied as real estate and aviation, and it took great drive to do so. But he was always a self-effacing man who considered it estentatious to take a suite at a hotel or buy the best seats obtainable at the theater.

Ed Pool, of the Kirkeby Hotel organization, his good friend, says that no one can ever even estimate what Braniff gave to charity in his time. He was unable to resist any person or institution in need of money. The most remote employee in his bustling empire was his friend, he considered, and frequent beneficiary of his thoughtfulness.

Braniff lived and died solidly seized with the belief that the future of the United States is irrevocably bound to the future of the hemisphere. He deplored the tendencyy of successive political administrations to pay little more than lip service to our friends in Central and South America. For that reason he fought for and won Braniff airline routes into the lands below the border, bucking the tremendous "lock" which Pan-American had on the business.

His country, his church and his friends have lost a fine man.

One of the all-time ferrying jobs in aviation history has just been completed. More than 350 sabrejets, built in Canada and fitted with engines supplied by the U. S., have been flown 3,100 miles to Britain for service with the RAF.

The job took a year, and the flying was done in all kinds of Arctic weather. A high grade of cooperation between the American, Canadian and British airmen was developed during that time. Dozens of pilots were trained in a host of difficult chores, including how to survive in freezing weather. There were countless tests of equipment, and in some cases new maintenance tools were devised to keep the planes moving on their stepping stones from Montreal to British fields.

Belgium, 1/300th the size of the U. S., leads the world in one field of aviation which is bound to expand enormously—passenger helicopter service.

Sabena, the little country's airline, celebrated its 30th anniversary last September 1 by launching regular international helicopter service to Lille, in France, Rotterdam in the Netherlands, and to Cologne and Bonn, in Germany. In the first three months of operation more than 3,000 passengers flew out of the heliports at Brussels.

The Belgians use the U. S.-built Sikorsky S-55, have bigger egg-beaters on order. About 75,000,000 persons live within a 200-mile radius of Brussels, an ideal set-up for 'copters. Sabena allows 22 pounds of baggage per passenger, carries infants under two for 10 per cent of normal fare, and asks clients not to bring along their Great Danes.

The planet Mercury revolves about the sun like the moon around the earth, presenting the same face to the sun. Mercury's temperature in consequence stays more than 800 degrees Fahrenheit on one side and almost absolute zero on the other.

Talent Show Being Planned To Aid Keyser Polio Drive

March Of Dimes Queen To Be Selected

KEYSER — A "March of Dimes" Talent Show will be given in connection with the March of Dimes campaign being conducted at this time in Mineral County as a feature of the Keyser program. The show will be staged Tuesday, February 2, in Keyser High School auditorium. Scheduled to open at 8 p. m. the revue of talent is being presented for the purpose of raising funds for the March of Dimes, and is sponsored by the Keyser Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary Clubs.

Market Again Pushes Ahead As Railroads Spark Drive

Oils and steels also did well along with the coppers, motors, utilities, aircrafts, air lines, and radio - televisions. The chemicals were out in front during the day, but their prices softened in the end.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 60 cents at $109.40. It was up 80 cents yesterday. The industrial component of the average today gained $1.00, rails were up 60 cents, and the utilities tipped ahead 20 cents.

Only The Rich Can Afford Poor Heating!

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP) — The Stock Market pushed ahead today for the second straight time, and on this occasion it was able to muster one show of vigor.

Railroads triggered the rally in the second hour that gave the market its best boost of the day. Volume during that hour was nearly double that of any other full hour.

Oils and steels also did well along with the coppers, motors, utilities, aircrafts, air lines, and radio-televisions. The chemicals were out in front during the day, but their prices softened in the end.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 60 cents at $109.40. It was up 80 cents yesterday. The industrial component of the average today gained $1.00, rails were up 60 cents, and the utilities tipped ahead 20 cents.

Volume expanded to 1,420,000 shares, compared with 1,250,000 traded yesterday.

Additional Snow Predicted Today For Tri-State

Lower Readings Expected In Area

The Weather Bureau predicted more snow for the Maryland area today as the winter's worst cold wave continues.

The Bureau added today would be cloudy and cold after a frigid night of low temperatures ranging between 5 and 15 degrees, and going to near zero in Western Maryland.

The excepted snow is expected to begin in this end of the state this afternoon and spread east by or during the night. The Weather Bureau couldn't say immediately how much snow may come.

Roads Icy

The cold wave, which formed a hard crust of ice over many Tri-State area highways, continued yesterday, accompanied by strong winds which abated early last night.

Weather was cloudy in most sections of the district yesterday, with the exception of Cumberland, where a dim sun appeared for several hours in the afternoon. Even with the sun, the official high yesterday was only 25 degrees.

Low reading in the Queen City yesterday was 13 degrees, according to Robert R. Golden, official weather observer. Looking over weather records for the past 40 years, Golden noted that Cumberland has experienced in January temperatures of zero or lower only nine times.

In the 40 years, February had zero or below on the thermometer only seven times, while in March mercury plunged to zero or less only twice. In fact, mercury has been at 10 degrees or lower only 29 times in 40 years during January.

In the past six years, mercury in Cumberland has been below zero only once during January. That was in January of 1948 when thermometers dropped to two degrees below. Other low January readings were 10 degrees in 1949, 15 in 1950, 12 in 1951, five degrees in 1952, 19 in 1953 and 13 so far this year.

Drifts Block Highways

Snow drifts on secondary roads made trouble yesterday in Allegany, Garrett, Frederick and Montgomery counties in Maryland, and also in nearby counties of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Main roads were open in all areas last night, but were icy and snow-covered in spots.

State Police of the three states together with State Roads Commission officials warned motorists to use chains on their vehicles and to be cautious while traveling.

During Tuesday night, winds caused drifts that blocked county roads in Allegany and Garrett counties. SRC trucks in both counties kept a constant vigil in order to keep main highways open.

County Roads Department heads said eight plows, two graders and three trucks equipped with salt spreaders worked all day yesterday out of the Franklin Street Garage, clearing secondary roads in the Cumberland and McCoole area and west to Polish Mountain.

Zero West Of Here

One grader and one plow was working in the Oldtown section, and one grader and one plow were working in the Orleans area. Lonaconing and Barton sections were being cleared by a grader and two plows. Other sections getting attention yesterday wer Hinkle Lane above Mt. Savage, Scott Road near the Garrett County line, and Williams Road.

The coldest reading yesterday during the strong wind period was an official zero at Big Savage Mountain. Others were one degree at Elk Garden, five degrees at Oakland and Accident, eight degrees at Frostburg, 10 at Mt. Savage, four at Bean's Cove, 14 at Town Hill, 10 at Green Ridge, 12 at LaVale and 12 at Keyser.

Sledding Victim Is Improving

Margaret Werner, 13, of 18 North Chase Street, who was admitted to Memorial Hospital Tuesday night suffering injuries sustained in a sled-car accident on Washington Street, was reported in "fair" condition and somewhat improved last night.

She is a daughter of Mrs. Julia S. Werner. The girl, according to police, suffered a broken collarbone, fractures of five ribs, a possible skull fracture and other head injuries. X-rays were taken.

Officer Warren G. Brehm said the girl's sled was struck by an auto driven by James Stanley Hinkle, 24, of 718 Yale Street. She was coasting down Spruce Alley onto the 200-block Washington Street when the mishap occurred about 8 p. m.

Investigation disclosed the girl was "pushed approximately 25 to 30 feet" by the car. No charges were filed against Hinkle pending the outcome of her injuries.

News In Brief

The Salvation Army Advisory Board will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, January 20, at 6:15 p. m. at The Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street.

The Parent-Teacher Association of SS. Peter and Paul School will meet next Sunday at 3 p. m. at the school.

MRS. WILLIAM RANKIN AND DAUGHTER

Local Woman And Daughter To Join Husband In Alaska

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

At 10:21 a. m. today Mrs. William Rankin and her five-month-old daughter, Laurie Ann, will leave from the Cumberland Municipal Airport on the first leg of an air trip to Alaska, where she will join her husband, Cpl. William Rankin, now serving in the Army.

Last night Mrs. Rankin was still packing for the trip north and expected to arrive in Anchorage in 36 hours.

RITES TODAY — A funeral service for Cleon W. "Cap" Raese, 65, of Davis, W. Va., former member of the West Virginia House of Delegates and well-known alumnus and former athlete at Davis and Elkins College, who died at his home Monday, will be held at 2 p. m. today at the residence. Rev. Andrew B. Mann, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will officiate and full military rites will be accorded at the graveside in Davis Cemetery by Blue Ridge Post 22, American Legion.

Excitedly, she remarked that her husband had called her Saturday afternoon, saying he had found living quarters for the family.

There will be two stops between here and Anchorage. One will be in Pittsburgh and the other in Minneapolis. In his telephone call Cpl. Rankin, who has been stationed at Fort Richardson for the past two months, said the weather was fine at about 15 degrees above zero with snow at a depth of about nine inches.

For the past few days Mrs. Rankin, of 810 Ashland Avenue has been getting a preview of what to expect when she steps from the plane in Anchorage.

Cpl. Rankin, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Rankin, of Frostburg, has served in both the Army and Navy. During World War II he was in the Navy and was returning from China on V-J Day.

After 18 months service in the Navy he was discharged and later enlisted in the Army and for four and one half years was stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

While the Rankins were there, blue-eyed Laurie Ann was born to the couple. In Alaska, where he expects to be stationed for about two years, Cpl. Rankin is serving in the 518th Military Police Company as a patrol supervisor.

Mrs. Rankin who has been staying with her mother, Mrs. Virginia M. Rees, is a graduate of Beall High School in Frostburg. Her husband also attended the school prior to enlisting in the Navy at the age of 17.

Romney Deaf Pupils Speak To Educators

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 13 (AP)—An attractive Negro girl from McDowell County, 20-year-old Cora Roberts of Gary, read a report she could not see to the State Board of Education today.

Two other young students—Frederick M. Criss, 17, of Clarksburg, and Tony Jack Mickle, 15, of Charleston—gave addresses they could not hear, concerning their daily life in school.

Miss Roberts is blind, Criss and Mickle are deaf. They are students at the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind at Romney and the Colored Deaf and Blind at Institute.

The three young people appeared before the board, as it opened a two-day meeting here, in connection with another in a series of "reports to the people" by Hugo F. Schunhoff, superintendent of the Romney institution, and E. A. Bolling, superintendent at Institute.

Miss Roberts spoke with impeccable diction as her practiced fingers sped along rows of indentations in the braille manuscripts of her address, "My Experiences."

She told the board she had "a number of happy experiences" but the most important was "to have the wonderful experience of learning to live and understand the traits of others to have a happy life."

Red Cross To Renew Efforts For Keeping Blood Bank Here

With the need for blood donors so great, unless Allegany County residents begin meeting the monthly quota of donated blood, there is a danger that free blood will be withdrawn from county hospitals.

This is the problem which has prompted a special meeting at the Red Cross room in Lonaconing at 7:30 p.m. today. The quota for the area is 150 pints on each visit of the Blood Mobile Unit. The area embraces that around Lonaconing, Barton and Midland.

The next visit of tht Blood Mobile Unit in Allegany County will be on February 1 at the home of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars in Lonaconing.

In order to widely publicize the regular appearance of the Blood Mobile in the area, organizations, former donors and others are being contacted. Assistance is to be enlisted from the VFW, the American Legion, volunteer fire companies, auxiliaries, PTA groups and others, in an effort to start meeting regular quotas.

A house to house canvas of the area is being considered as one means of enlisting enough volunteers.

Cattlemen Will Convene Here

Plans are being formulated for the annual livestock and dairy cattle meeting which will be held in the City Hall auditorium Thursday, February 11, according to County Agent Ralph F. McHenry.

The county agent, observed that these meetings have been conducted annually ever since 1938. Between 75 and 100 beef cattle producers and dairymen usually attend these meetings to hear experts in their respective fields.

Although most of the farmers attending have come from Allegany County, there usually have been a few from Bedford County, Pa., and Mineral County, W. Va.

Davis To Address Ministerial Group

The Cumberland Ministerial Association will meet Monday at 10 a. m. in the George Williams room of Central YMCA, according to an announcement issued by Winfield H. Adam, secretary.

Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools in Allegany County, will be speaker. His subject will be "Aims of the Church and School."

Auto Mechanics Class To Open Here Jan. 25

Trade School Will Offer Day Course

A new daytime class in auto mechanics will be started by the Allegany Trade School Monday, January 25, according to Ira E. Northcraft, school registrar.

This full-time class will start at 8 a.m. and run through 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday each week, except for legal holidays. The course will run for 96 weeks, virtually two full years.

Since last July, the County Board of Education and the Trade School have offered a night class in auto mechanics on a part-time basis of 15 hours per week. This course has proved popular with veterans of the Korean War who have regular employment. Twenty are enrolled.

Northcraft reports that some 10 veterans of the Korean War have enrolled for the planned daytime class. The class can be conducted with as few as 12 students but the registrar would like to have at least 20 enrolled.

Veterans of the Korean conflict who were discharged on or before August 20, 1952, have until August 20, 1954, to begin training under the training program. Those discharged after August 20, 1952, have two years after date of discharge to commence training.

The auto mechanics course consists of such phases as the power unit, electrical system, fuel system, power train, chassis and basic auto mechanic machine shop work, basic mathematics and other related sciences.

Veterans who desire to take the training should contact Northcraft at the school's office located at the rear of the Greene Street Fire Station on or before Friday, January 22, because the enrollment will be limited.

The Trade School has been in operation since April 1946. Approximately 1,400 World War II and Korean War veterans have been enrolled. About 400 have received diplomas in their selected courses.

Because of forthcoming graduations in the machine shop practice course there are a limited number of openings. The class now has an enrollment of 21.

Veterans of the Korean War have studied in the Trade School since last January, when the State Department of Education, the Veterans Administration and the County Board of Education approved the school for such training.

1,500,000 Trees Earmarked For Area Counties

More than 40 per cent of the 3,250,000 seedling trees which the state nursery at Harmans in Anne Arundel County has ready for distribution to Marylanders will come to the four-county Western Maryland district, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

The district forester expects to have about 1,500,000 young trees and 800,000, or 25 per cent of the state's total, are earmarked for heavily-forested Garrett County. Frederick County will get about 250,000 and Allegany and Washington counties each will receive over 200,000.

Johnson already has received applications from about 100 property owners for the seedling trees. He will continue to take requests until all of the available seedlings are promised.

The species of trees include more than a million each of loblolly pine and black pine and lesser quantities of red and scotch pine, Norway spruce, black locust and tulip poplar.

The trees must be used for reforestation of idle land and to improve watershed conditions under provisions of a 1943 act.

The department has nine tree planting machines which are available to landowners to set out trees at cost. The cost per acre is estimated at about $6 more or less depending on the roughness of the land.

18-Year Old Boys Start Sentences For Auto Theft

Two 18-year-old Cumberland boys, convicted last Saturday on auto theft charges, were taken to the Maryland House of Correction yesterday by Deputy Sheriff George Harris to begin their sentences.

One of the boys, Jerry Frantz, had been sentenced by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick to 18 months in the House of Correction.

Back in October, Frantz received a suspended sentence from Magistrate Dick on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. One of the provisions was that he was to go to Dayton, Ohio, and obtain employment. Frantz has been confined in various state and federal institutions since he was 11 years old.

Frantz's associate, Charles W. Johnson, was handed a six-month term. Later Frantz's sentence was reduced to 12 months. Both had been confined in the County Jail since last week.

March Of Dimes Drive Aided By B & O Workmen

Committees Plan Many Activities

Over $100 was contributed yesterday by workmen at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops and roundhouse when two volunteer solicitors went there with March of Dimes coin containers.

Victor M. Hebb, chairman of the South End district for the county-wide polio fund campaign, said two of his committee members made the solicitation.

Hebb praised Mrs. Loretta McGann, Oldtown Road, and Mrs. Louise M. Jackle, Hazen Road, for their efforts. He also stated that the solicitation would not have been possible without the cooperation of E. M. Scherch, superintendent of the back shops, and A. E. Beckman, division master mechanic in charge of the roundhouse.

Hebb said several social events are being planned in South Cumberland in an effort to raise more money for the fight against polio.

In the meantime, Charles N. Wilkinson, chairman of the Cumberland district, said a number of organizations have promised to hold dances and other events for the benefit of the polio drive. Wilkinson's committee has also set up a program of radio talks, mail solicitation, and theatre and personal contact solicitation.

The National Foundation has asked Allegany County to increase its contributions far above previous years. Giving here has always been below the national average.

Part of all money donated in the March of Dimes drive in this county goes to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, with which the County League for Infantile Paralysis is affiliated.

A new U. S. Army Reserve unit, Company D, 302d Signal Battalion (Construction), has been activated and will be located in Cumberland, it has been announced by the Second Army.

Battalion headquarters for the new unit is located in Frederick where Headquarters, Headquarters Company and A, B and C Companies are located. Lt. Col. James E. Bartgis, Frederick, is battalion commander.

Local officers at the Army Reserve Armory on South Mechanic Street said they are in the process of obtaining personnel for the new unit. 1st Lt. William N. Keller Jr., an employe of the C&P Telephone Company, has been assigned as commander of the new company, local unit advisers said.

Keller is a veteran of World War II and served with the 366th Signal Company, 66th Infantry Division, and with the 302nd Signal Company, 42nd Army Infantry Division.

M/Sgt. James D. Simmons, assistant unit adviser, said that already two officers, recently released from active duty by the Army, have requested to be assigned with the new company. They are 2nd Lt. James S. Hinkle, 718 Yale Street, and 2nd Lt. John E. Arve, 408 Warwick Avenue.

Normally the mission of the Signal Construction Battalion is to provide all types of signal outside plant construction and maintenance which may be required for telephone, telegraph and including teletypewriter, and facsimile construction within a theatre of operations. The battalion is also required to perform specific construction missions.

The mission of the unit, in addition, includes construction of wire and cable circuits, installation, maintenance and rehabilitation of field and open wire lines.

Sgt. Simmons said vacancies exist in all grades in the new unit, and qualified Signal Corps men in the inactive Reserve who wish to become members of the unit may call 5142 or visit the Armory at 301 South Mechanic Street. Men without previous Army service also are eligible for enlistment.

Guard Fetes Retiring Head Of Company C, To Be Succeeded By Lt. Robert M. Andres

Succeeding Lt. Shuck as commander is First Lt. Robert M. Andres, Frostburg, who was transferred here from Campany D at Frostburg.

Lt. Shuck was inducted into the Army in 1944, and, after serving at various camps in the U. S., was sent to the European Theatre of Operations. Following his discharge, he enlisted in the Maryland Guard as a private in December, 1947, in Company C here.

While an enlisted man, he rose to the rank of staff sergeant, and in January, 1950 was commissioned a second lieutenant as platoon leader in the company. He was promoted to first lieutenant in January 1952 and became company com-

Change Of Command

County School Attendance Hits 94.1 Per Cent

Junior High Average Better

Attendance in Allegany County elementary schools during December averaged 94.1 per cent, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county school system.

In many cases attendance in the first three grades was extremely low because of various illnesses especially virus infections and mumps. However attendance in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades held up well, Higgins added.

The highest elementary school attendance record for December was made by Hill Street School in Frostburg, which had a 96.5 per cent mark, second best for the school in that month in the last five years.

Frostburg Leads

Four other elementary schools had their best December records in the last five years. Included were Flintstone, whose 96.4 per cent was considered probably the best December standard in its history; Mt. Royal, 95.3 per cent; West Side, 95.2 per cent, and Oldtown, 95.

Other elementary schools which averaged 95 per cent or higher in December were Ellerslie, Barton, LaVale, Penn Avenue (special), Centre Street, Columbia Street and Central of Lonaconing. Poorer marks in other schools brought the county-wide average for elementary schools to only the fourth best in the past five years.

Incidentally, Frostburg carried off the attendance championship last month in all three divisions, for Beall High School was the leader in both junior and senior high school levels.

In the junior high bracket, the county average was 94.3 per cent, the second best for December in five years. Beall's 97.5 per cent was its best for five years.

Flintstone also had its highest junior high average for the past five years. Fort Hill's junior high figure was 93.5 per cent and Allegany reported 95 per cent.

Many Worked In Stores

In the senior high school classification, the county average was only 92.6 per cent, only the fourth best over the last five years. Beall High was the leader with 96.6 per cent, best December figure over the five-year period. Allegany recorded 94.9 per cent and Fort Hill 93.5 per cent.

One reason for the drop in senior high attendance was illness. Still another was that some students were granted permission to work during school hours before Christmas. These pupils were thoroughly screened and permits were issued on the basis of present attendance and scholastic standing and ability to make up classes missed.

Carver School averaged well above 96 per cent at all three levels. The figures were 96.8 per cent for elementary pupils, 96.9 per cent for junior high school and 97.9 per cent on the senior high level. The last was the best record in the five-year period. Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg reported 94.3 per cent.

Attaches said he suffered an injury to his right arm when he was struck by a truck driven by his father in the driveway of the Lindner home.

Charlotte Brown, 11, who resides with an aunt, Mrs. Martha Ryan, 11 Jones Street, Ridgeley, W. Va., suffered an injury to her right wrist when she slipped on the ice while running across the street near her home. She was admitted at 5:45 p. m. for X-rays and observation.

Prayer Service Set

Today at 7:30 p. m. a prayer and praise service will be held at the Bowman's Addition Baptist Mission. A study of the Book of John will be given, according to James D. Hall, student pastor.

Rankin, who has been stationed at Fort Richardson for the past two months, said the weather was fine at about 15 degrees above zero with snow at a depth of about nine inches.

For the past few days Mrs. Rankin, of 810 Ashland Avenue has been getting a preview of what to expect when she steps from the plane in Anchorage.

Cpl. Rankin, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Rankin, of Frostburg, has served in both the Army and Navy. During World War II he was in the Navy and was returning from China on V-J Day.

After 18 months service in the Navy he was discharged and later enlisted in the Army and for four and one half years was stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

While the Rankins were there, blue-eyed Laurie Ann was born to the couple. In Alaska, where he expects to be stationed for about two years, Cpl. Rankin is serving in the 518th Military Police Company as a patrol supervisor.

Mrs. Rankin who has been staying with her mother, Mrs. Virginia M. Rees, is a graduate of Beall High School in Frostburg. Her husband also attended the school prior to enlisting in the Navy at the age of 17.

Romney Deaf Pupils Speak To Educators

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 13 (AP)—An attractive Negro girl from McDowell County, 20-year-old Cora Roberts of Gary, read a report she could not see to the State Board of Education today.

Two other young students—Frederick M. Criss, 17, of Clarksburg, and Tony Jack Mickle, 15, of Charleston—gave addresses they could not hear, concerning their daily life in school.

Miss Roberts is blind, Criss and Mickle are deaf. They are students at the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind at Romney and the Colored Deaf and Blind at Institute.

The three young people appeared before the board, as it opened a two-day meeting here, in connection with another in a series of "reports to the people" by Hugo F. Schunhoff, superintendent of the Romney institution, and E. A. Bolling, superintendent at Institute.

Miss Roberts spoke with impeccable diction as her practiced fingers sped along rows of indentations in the braille manuscripts of her address, "My Experiences."

She told the board she had "a number of happy experiences" but the most important was "to have the wonderful experience of learning to live and understand the traits of others to have a happy life."

Red Cross To Renew Efforts For Keeping Blood Bank Here

With the need for blood donors so great, unless Allegany County residents begin meeting the monthly quota of donated blood, there is a danger that free blood will be withdrawn from county hospitals.

This is the problem which has prompted a special meeting at the Red Cross room in Lonaconing at 7:30 p.m. today. The quota for the area is 150 pints on each visit of the Blood Mobile Unit. The area embraces that around Lonaconing, Barton and Midland.

The next visit of tht Blood Mobile Unit in Allegany County will be on February 1 at the home of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars in Lonaconing.

It is urged by Red Cross officials that all donors possible make an effort to give a pint of blood on that day.

In order to widely publicize the regular appearance of the Blood Mobile in the area, organizations, former donors and others are being contacted. Assistance is to be enlisted from the VFW, the American Legion, volunteer fire companies, auxiliaries, PTA groups and others, in an effort to start meeting regular quotas.

A house to house canvas of the area is being considered as one means of enlisting enough volunteers.

Auto Mechanics Class To Open Here Jan. 25

Trade School Will Offer Day Course

A new daytime class in auto mechanics will be started by the Allegany Trade School Monday, January 25, according to Ira E. Northcraft, school registrar.

This full-time class will start at 8 a.m. and run through 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday each week, except for legal holidays. The course will run for 96 weeks, virtually two full years.

Since last July, the County Board of Education and the Trade School have offered a night class in auto mechanics on a part-time basis of 15 hours per week. This course has proved popular with veterans of the Korean War who have regular employment. Twenty are enrolled.

Northcraft reports that some 10 veterans of the Korean War have enrolled for the planned daytime class. The class can be conducted with as few as 12 students but the registrar would like to have at least 20 enrolled.

Veterans of the Korean conflict who were discharged on or before August 20, 1952, have until August 20, 1954, to begin training under the training program. Those discharged after August 20, 1952, have two years after date of discharge to commence training.

The auto mechanics course consists of such phases as the power unit, electrical system, fuel system, power train, chassis and basic auto mechanic machine shop work, basic mathematics and other related sciences.

Veterans who desire to take the training should contact Northcraft at the school's office located at the rear of the Greene Street Fire Station on or before Friday, January 22, because the enrollment will be limited.

The Trade School has been in operation since April 1946. Approximately 1,400 World War II and Korean War veterans have been enrolled. About 400 have received diplomas in their selected courses.

Because of forthcoming graduations in the machine shop practice course there are a limited number of openings. The class now has an enrollment of 21.

Veterans of the Korean War have studied in the Trade School since last January, when the State Department of Education, the Veterans Administration and the County Board of Education approved the school for such training.

1,500,000 Trees Earmarked For Area Counties

More than 40 per cent of the 3,250,000 seedling trees which the state nursery at Harmans in Anne Arundel County has ready for distribution to Marylanders will come to the four-county Western Maryland district, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

The district forester expects to have about 1,500,000 young trees and 800,000, or 25 per cent of the state's total, are earmarked for heavily-forested Garrett County. Frederick County will get about 250,000 and Allegany and Washington counties each will receive over 200,000.

Johnson already has received applications from about 100 property owners for the seedling trees. He will continue to take requests until all of the available seedlings are promised.

The species of trees include more than a million each of loblolly pine and black pine and lesser quantities of red and scotch pine, Norway spruce, black locust and tulip poplar.

The trees must be used for reforestation of idle land and to improve watershed conditions under provisions of a 1943 act.

Applications for trees are being taken at the district offices located in Cumberland, Laurel, Bel Air and Salisbury and by county agents.

The department has nine tree planting machines which are available to landowners to set out trees at cost. The cost per acre is estimated at about $6 more or less depending on the roughness of the land.

Cattlemen Will Convene Here

Plans are being formulated for the annual livestock and dairy cattle meeting which will be held in the City Hall auditorium Thursday, February 11, according to County Agent Ralph F. McHenry.

The county agent, observed that these meetings have been conducted annually ever since 1938. Between 75 and 100 beef cattle producers and dairymen usually attend these meetings to hear experts in their respective fields.

Although most of the farmers attending have come from Allegany County, there usually have been a few from Bedford County, Pa., and Mineral County, W. Va.

18-Year Old Boys Start Sentences For Auto Theft

Two 18-year-old Cumberland boys, convicted last Saturday on auto theft charges, were taken to the Maryland House of Correction yesterday by Deputy Sheriff George Harris to begin their sentences.

One of the boys, Jerry Frantz, had been sentenced by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick to 18 months in the House of Correction.

Back in October, Frantz received a suspended sentence from Magistrate Dick on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. One of the provisions was that he was to go to Dayton, Ohio, and obtain employment. Frantz has been confined in various state and federal institutions since he was 11 years old.

Frantz's associate, Charles W. Johnson, was handed a six-month term. Later Frantz's sentence was reduced to 12 months. Both had been confined in the County Jail since last week.

March Of Dimes Drive Aided By B & O Workmen

Committees Plan Many Activities

Over $100 was contributed yesterday by workmen at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops and roundhouse when two volunteer solicitors went there with March of Dimes coin containers.

Victor M. Hebb, chairman of the South End district for the county-wide polio fund campaign, said two of his committee members made the solicitation.

Hebb praised Mrs. Loretta McGann, Oldtown Road, and Mrs. Louise M. Jackle, Hazen Road, for their efforts. He also stated that the solicitation would not have been possible without the cooperation of E. M. Scherch, superintendent of the back shops, and A. E. Beckman, division master mechanic in charge of the roundhouse.

Hebb said several social events are being planned in South Cumberland in an effort to raise more money for the fight against polio.

In the meantime, Charles N. Wilkinson, chairman of the Cumberland district, said a number of organizations have promised to hold dances and other events for the benefit of the polio drive. Wilkinson's committee has also set up a program of radio talks, mail solicitation, and theatre and personal contact solicitation.

Part of all money donated in the March of Dimes drive in this county goes to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, with which the County League for Infantile Paralysis is affiliated.

Keller is a veteran of World War II and served with the 366th Signal Company, 66th Infantry Division, and with the 302nd Signal Company, 42nd Army Infantry Division.

County School Attendance Hits 94.1 Per Cent

Junior High Average Better

Attendance in Allegany County elementary schools during December averaged 94.1 per cent, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county school system.

In many cases attendance in the first three grades was extremely low because of various illnesses especially virus infections and mumps. However attendance in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades held up well, Higgins added.

The highest elementary school attendance record for December was made by Hill Street School in Frostburg, which had a 96.5 per cent mark, second best for the school in that month in the last five years.

Frostburg Leads

Four other elementary schools had their best December records in the last five years. Included were Flintstone, whose 96.4 per cent was considered probably the best December standard in its history; Mt. Royal, 95.3 per cent; West Side, 95.2 per cent, and Oldtown, 95.

Other elementary schools which averaged 95 per cent or higher in December were Ellerslie, Barton, LaVale, Penn Avenue (special), Centre Street, Columbia Street and Central of Lonaconing. Poorer marks in other schools brought the county-wide average for elementary schools to only the fourth best in the past five years.

Incidentally, Frostburg carried off the attendance championship last month in all three divisions, for Beall High School was the leader in both junior and senior high school levels.

In the junior high bracket, the county average was 94.3 per cent, the second best for December in five years. Beall's 97.5 per cent was its best for five years.

Flintstone also had its highest junior high average for the past five years. Fort Hill's junior high figure was 93.5 per cent and Allegany reported 95 per cent.

Many Worked In Stores

In the senior high school classification, the county average was only 92.6 per cent, only the fourth best over the last five years. Beall High was the leader with 96.6 per cent, best December figure over the five-year period. Allegany recorded 94.9 per cent and Fort Hill 93.5 per cent.

One reason for the drop in senior high attendance was illness. Still another was that some students were granted permission to work during school hours before Christmas. These pupils were thoroughly screened and permits were issued on the basis of present attendance and scholastic standing and ability to make up classes missed.

Carver School averaged well above 96 per cent at all three levels. The figures were 96.8 per cent for elementary pupils, 96.9 per cent for junior high school and 97.9 per cent on the senior high level. The last was the best record in the five-year period. Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg reported 94.3 per cent.
